Jews Continue To Bomb Gaza; Observers Flee

TEL AVIV (AP)—Bombing by the Israeli Air Force of Gaza roared into its fourth straight day today and the Arab civilian population was reported in flight from the capital of the Arab-proclaimed Palestine state.

United Nations observers already have left the port city. How nearly deserted it was could not be learned, but its use as a seat of the Arab government seemed to have been announced for the time being. Egyptian forces have occupied it.

PLANES SHOT DOWN

The Israeli Army announced it had shot down two Egyptian Spitfires in southern Palestine today. One plane fell into the sea in Israeli waters when struck by the fire of anti-aircraft guns aboard a Jewish patrol ship it was attacking, the communiqué said. The second was reported downed by an Israeli plane in a dogfight over the Negev front lines.

Security Council Orders Holy Land Fighting Stop

PARIS (CP)—The United Nations Security Council today unanimously ordered an immediate and effective cease-fire by Jews and Arabs in the southern Palestine desert fighting. The council acted swiftly on the report of its interim mediator, Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, on the battle between Israeli troops and Egyptians for the Negev Desert. Egypt had announced previously she would accept Bunche's request for a three-day cease-fire. Israel rejected it. Israeli planes today bombed Gaza, Egyptian troops base and seat of the recently-formed Arab Palestine government, for the fourth straight day. The Egyptian air force, hitting back for the first time, was reported to have bombed the Jewish settlements of Nir Am and Dorot. The 11-member council first voted 9 to 0, with Russia and the Soviet Ukraine abstaining, to adopt a resolution calling for a cease-fire and instructing Bunche to negotiate a settlement of the Negev dispute. Syria proposed this resolution. Russia objected to combining the cease-fire with the negotiations and asked for reconsideration of the resolution by sections. Russia and the Ukraine then voted for the cease-fire but abstained on the other section of the resolution.

St. Roch Back From Arctic After 17,000-Mile Trip

VANCOUVER (CP)—The R.C.M.P. Arctic patrol ship St. Roch was in harbor here today after a 17,000-mile foray into polar seas.

Under command of Inspector Harry Larsen of Victoria, Canada's Arctic-wide policeman-explorer, the "toughie" of northern waters had a near-brush with disaster in an Arctic ice pack out from Herschel Island, near the Mackenzie River's mouth.

The auxiliary schooner was in danger of being frozen-in until mid-1949, but she bucked her way through heavy winds and rough seas to safety.

"If we had waited," the skipper said, "we would have been caught."

Residents along the lonely coastal route turned on all available lights after hearing of the St. Roch's plight, guiding the stout 80-ton ship down a narrow channel.

Finally, on Sept. 11, the ship reached Point Barrow, on Alaska's tip, and headed for home. She had been away since June, 1947.

Most "bushed" of the returning mounties aboard the St. Roch was Constable Stan Byers, who had been at an Arctic post since 1944.

"There were two other white men there, besides myself—one of them a policeman," he said.

New Upper House Of France To Take Sharp Right Swing

PARIS (AP)—The new Council of the Republic, France's Upper House, is going to take a sharp swing to the right.

Figures compiled today from Sunday's election indicated that Leftists and near Leftists will have about 130 members of the 320 in the Assembly, compared with 219 in the old one still in existence. Rightist parties and Rightist independents will have the balance of about 190, compared with about 83 last time. In the current Assembly are a few who defy classification.

These figures are based on what the electors who were chosen Sunday may be expected to do when, on Nov. 7, they set about choosing the members of the Council of the Republic.

Greatest losers will be the Communists and the Catholic Popular Republicans.

Communists Hold All Of Changchun

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Manchurian capital of Changchun has been captured by Chinese Reds, the Communist radio in North China asserted today. The radio said all resistance ceased when the government's new Seventh Army "downed arms" at noon today (Chinese Time).

Search Organized For Missing Lineman

Search parties are being organized to comb the woods of the extreme northern part of Vancouver Island for E. Lincoln, lineman for the federal government telegraph service, who has been missing for 10 days, B.C. Police headquarters here today reported.

Mr. Lincoln was last heard from while working on the telegraph line between Cape Scott and Shushartie. The telegraph line is still out.

Old Tools Aid New Machines In Fighting Europe's Cold War

Gatow Airfield, in the British sector of Berlin, is being expanded to take care of increasing numbers of British and U.S. planes flying the airlift run. Already some 400 planes fly about 3,000 tons of fuel and food over the Russian blockade each day, but expansion is vital because of the coming of winter. This German worker, left, uses old-fashioned "milkmaid's buckets" during construction. At right, German laborers lay the foundation for a new strip while a C-47 lands in background. Besides hand labor, latest construction machinery is being used on the project. (Photos by NEA-Acme staff correspondent Erich Engel.)

Prize For Eliot

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Literary sources said today U.S.-born Thomas Stearns Eliot is considered a strong candidate for the Nobel Prize. This year the prize amounts to more than $44,000. The 60-year-old author is now a British subject.

Oil Strike Hope

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Director Paul Scharenberg of the State Department of Industrial Relations says state conciliators have been meeting separately with oil companies and strikers and "an early settlement" of the west coast oil strike is possible. Joint bargaining meetings are being arranged, he announced.

Autos To Cost More

DETROIT (AP)—Price increases averaging $275 on its "600" series and $390 on the "Ambassador" models were announced today by Nash Motors. The increases apply to the new 1949 model cars now in production and to be introduced publicly Oct. 22.

Sun Life Joins Nine U.S. Companies In Big Oil Loan

NEW YORK (CP)—The Sun Life Insurance Company of Canada is participating in a $250,000,000 loan for oil development in the western hemisphere.

The loan, one of the largest in the history of corporate finance, has been arranged by the Shell Caribbean Petroleum Company of New Jersey.

The Canadian company will purchase $10,000,000 worth of the 4-per cent bonds. Nine United States insurance companies will purchase the remainder of the bonds. Chief participant is the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York, which put up $103,000,000.

The bond issue is to be secured by 8,800,000 shares of the Shell Oil Corporation and part of the assets of the Royal Dutch Shell group in the western hemisphere. Some expansion will take place in Alberta, although the principal expansion is expected to be in South America.

Worthington To Direct Civil Defence Scheme

VANCOUVER (CP)—Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, appointed Coordinator of Civil Defence Planning, today is en route to Ottawa.

He left here Monday night for a conference with Defence Minister Claxton and other federal authorities.

"I mean to get my teeth into it," he said in discussing his new post. "I look at it as a sort of permanent disaster committee on a broad national scale."

APPOINTMENT ANNOUNCED

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, 59-year-old expert on armored warfare, has been appointed Co-ordinator of Civil Defence Planning, Defence

Minister Claxton announced today.

Military informants placed some emphasis on the planning nature of the new job as the announcement said "it has been decided not to try to set up local committees at this time."

Main task of the general will be to supervise the creation of plans for civil defence which could be placed in operation if war became imminent.

It was indicated he will travel extensively, checking on vulnerable spots and advising local authorities on what to expect if the international situation grows tense.

Russians Further Tighten Blockade; Re-Route Autos

BERLIN (AP)—The Russians, in another blockade-tightening move, announced today that all highway traffic entering Berlin from any point must pass through the Soviet sector of the city.

There the Russians are subjecting all vehicles to search for confiscation of foodstuffs and other "contraband" articles destined for the sealed-off western sectors.

This means that henceforth no German motor traffic coming from Potsdam or the southwest can enter the city directly, via the U.S. sector. It now must go around the city and enter from the east.

Train traffic still will come direct, but under close police inspection.

Negotiations Useless, Soviet Told

PARIS (CP)—The Big Three Western Powers told the United Nations' Security Council today that further negotiations with Russia on Germany are useless as long as the Russians keep a watertight blockade on Berlin.

Dr. Philip C. Jessup of the United States said the Russian stranglehold on road, rail and communications with Berlin was being tightened "even as the Security Council deliberates."

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Russian Deputy Foreign Minister, sniffling and sneezing from a severe cold, sat otherwise silently at the council table during the three-power attack.

Speaking on behalf of Britain, France and the United States, Jessup and Sir Alexander Cadogan said the western powers would not negotiate on the basis of their Aug. 30 agreement with Prime Minister Stalin as long as the blockade lasted.

Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain led off the western attack with an indictment of the tightening Soviet blockade. He spoke on behalf of all three Western Powers—Britain, France and the United States.

Not Talking Now On Aug. 30 Basis

Sir Alexander served notice the three Western Powers now feel it is impossible to negotiate with the Russians even on the basis of the Aug. 30 agreement with Prime Minister Stalin.

Skills To Fight Threatened Action Over Memorial Arena

Ald. Waldo Skillings said today he will fight court action threatened by Charles T. Hamilton over statements he (Ald. Skillings) allegedly made in connection with construction of the Memorial Arena.

Ald. Skillings said a rumor is being circulated to the effect that Mr. Hamilton, consulting engineer in the building of the rink has commenced an action against him for defamation arising from remarks made by Ald. Skillings at a City Council meeting Sept. 13.

He said that he has received a letter from solicitors of Mr. Hamilton asking him to retract what he allegedly said and to apologize.

"I have placed the matter in the hands of my solicitors," said Ald. Skillings.

Report 40 Killed, 200 Missing After Volcanic Eruption

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Forty persons are reported dead and 200 missing in a violent eight-hour eruption of the Villarica volcano of Cautin Province, 400 miles south of here.

Provincial Governor Augustin Parada said the volcano, which has been spouting smoke since April, erupted Monday morning and poured out lava for eight hours.

The damage may reach $1,500,000.

Reports indicated the lava flowed to a point between the resort town of Pucón and Villarica, both on the bank of Lake Villarica and about 60 miles apart. Farm huts were engulfed. Pucón was isolated except by boat. Inhabitants of the mountain-side fled as fire fighters and medical crews were rushed to the area from nearby communities.

Two Escape Prison

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Two inmates made a getaway from the state prison today while painting at the institution's chicken farm. They were identified as Ernest H. Moran, 31, serving a life term, and Clifford Jennings, 32, serving a 15-year sentence.

Citizen Sues, Asks Court To End Strike

PORTLAND (AP)—A lumber mill worker who wants to go back to work has filed a citizen's suit asking the federal court here to order West Coast shipping to resume. Arnold L. Couty, Coos Bay, charges both the Waterfront Employers' Association and the C.I.O. longshoremen have unjustly obstructed loading and unloading of ships by the strike.

Couty says he is one of 1,500 Coos Bay citizens thrown out of work as a result of the maritime strike.

"I'm not filing this suit against individuals or officers, but against the organizations. I'm doing it in the interests of all the people of the Pacific coast," he said.

Couty explained he had filed under a Bill of Rights amendment to the Constitution.

Witnesses Swear Accused Offered $15,000 Payment

DETROIT (AP)—Carl Bolton, 39, was held for trial today under $75,000 bond in the shooting of Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers (U.I.O.). No date for the trial was set.

Two convicted burglars had testified that Bolton offered $15,000 to have Reuther assassinated.

Call Tenders For Civic Arena Next Saturday

Tenders for completion of the Memorial Arena probably will be called this Saturday with closing date Nov. 3.

Mayor Percy George made this known today on receiving a letter from the Vancouver consulting engineer in the project, Charles T. Hamilton, who states:

"I am striving hard to advertise for tenders for completion of the arena in next Saturday's papers."

Mr. Hamilton is preparing an estimate on the amount of work required to complete the project.

Mayor George said a meeting of the City Council will be called for the afternoon of Nov. 3, the day the tender most likely will close, to open them and consider them.

At that meeting the council may accept a tender and approve advertising for the necessary by-law to provide the amount of money required.

Louis Definitely Will Fight Again; Outdoors Next June

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis said today he "definitely" will defend his title in an outdoor show next June.

The champ, who announced his retirement after knocking out Jersey Joe Walcott in Yankee Stadium last June 23, told newspapermen of his new decision after holding a long conference today with Mike Jacobs, president of the 20th Century Sporting Club.

Louis said he intended to give the "Joe Baksi-Ezzard Charles fight Dec. 10 the once-over and if it looks good I will fight the winner. If nothing comes out of that show I might take on Lee Savold, who's pulling a good comeback."

The champ, looking in fine shape, said he weighed 220 pounds. He scaled 213½ the night he flattened Walcott in the 11th round.

Two Escape Prison

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Two inmates made a getaway from the state prison today while painting at the institution's chicken farm. They were identified as Ernest H. Moran, 31, serving a life term, and Clifford Jennings, 32, serving a 15-year sentence.

Canadians To Celebrate Next Sunday As U.N. Day

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians Sunday will celebrate United Nations Day with speeches and discussions emphasizing the value of security.

The United Nations started to operate three years ago and the occasion will be observed in most parts of the world. The United Nations' Association of Canada is organizing celebrations in the Dominion.

Defence Minister Claxton, who will take part in U.N. day activities, is scheduled to deliver his views on Canada's role in international affairs in an address

The two witnesses also said that Kenneth Bannan, head of the union's Ford department, was scheduled to be killed later.

John Miller, 45, one of the witnesses at Bolton's examination on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder, said the $15,000 offer was made to him by Bolton four days before Reuther was shot last April 20 in his home.

LOOKED FOR JOB

Miller also testified that, as part of the proposition, he was assured of a good job with the union.

His testimony was backed up in part by 43-year-old John Pantella, who with Miller is awaiting sentence in Pontiac, Mich., on a burglary conviction. Reuther was shot and seriously wounded in his home last April 20.

ACQUAINTED 20 YEARS

Miller testified he had known Bolton for about 20 years.

He said that as early as September, 1947, Bolton told him "that something was coming up," and that a lot of money was involved.

Again in March, 1948, the witness continued, he had a similar conversation with Bolton. The name of the victim was not mentioned, the witness said, but he said Bolton referred on both occasions to "a dirty red Communist."

'NAME CAME UP'

Four days before Reuther was shot, Miller went on, he again was approached by Bolton and "the name of Walter Reuther came up."

Miller said Bolton spoke then of "rubbing out Walter Reuther." He asked Miller if he wanted the job, according to the testimony.

Bolton was quoted by the witness as saying the assassination would be worth $15,000.

"You mean that's all?" Miller said he asked Bolton.

"You'll get it within an hour after the job is done," he said Bolton added.

Miller testified that he then told Bolton: "No, I don't want the job."

Jumps Too Late, Woman Killed

EDMONTON (CP)—Mrs. Blanch Maltais of Beaumont, Alta., 15 miles southwest of Edmonton, was killed today as she and four companions made a last-minute leap to safety before a train engine struck their automobile at a level crossing.

The car apparently stalled crossing a railway line in Edmonton and a freight engine backed into it before Ernest Maltais, the driver, could get the motor going.

Mr. Maltais shouted a warning and Mrs. Maltais was about to leap when the engine struck. The others leaped safely.

MRS. KASENKINA TELLS ALL Installment 20

Countess Tolstoy Aids Me To Escape

By Oksana S. Kasenkina (Edited by ISAAC DON LEVINE and Copyright, 1948, by King Features Syndicate Inc.)

ONLY TWO DAYS remained until the scheduled sailing of the Pobeda which was to take me back to Russia. I was like a person being swept by a tide out into the open sea. Although I was at the very shore, I could find no anchorage.

The evening of Wednesday, July 28th, I telephoned the Russian language newspaper, the Novoye Russkoye Slovo, and asked for the editor. Without identifying myself and disclosing the object of my call, I inquired if the editor, Mr. Mark Weinbaum, was in the office. I was told that he had left, but would be at his desk the next day. Although I knew the paper was anti-Communist and stood for democracy and freedom, I asked if there were any Communists around the place.

Thursday morning I cautiously made my way to the offices of Mr. Weinbaum who received me instantly. He understood my situation as soon as I nervously recited to him a few salient facts.

He was the first man I had met in the United States to inspire me with confidence. He suggested that Vladimir Zenzinov, a free-lance Russian journalist, would be in a position to give me time to my rescue. I had never heard of Zenzinov, although he had a high reputation as revolutionist in Czarist days. Mr. Weinbaum assured me that I would be in safe hands. After telephoning Mr. Zenzinov, he sent me to his home on Riverside Drive.

Walking The Tightrope

I KNEW I was walking a tight-rope by establishing contacts with anti-Communist elements. Mr. Zenzinov showed himself as sympathetic to my plight as his friend the editor. The circumstances under which Mr. Zenzinov lived in one room did not bespeak affluence. I poured out my heart to him, and he told me that he was sure arrangements could be made to put me in a safe place.

He described to me the work of the Tolstoy Foundation to aid and the farm which was operated by Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, the favorite daughter of the great Russian writer. It seemed an ideal hide-out and haven.

Mr. Zenzinov got in touch with Countess Tolstoy at her office in New York, and that afternoon we went down for an interview. Alexandra Tolstoy, too, displayed the tenderest sympathy for me. At last, I felt, I was among people who understood me, who had bonds with America, and who could guide me to a new life.

It was arranged that I continue living with the Porojniakovs until Saturday morning when I would leave for the pier of the Pobeda. But instead of going to the boat, I would go to Zenzinov's place and he would then accompany me to the Reed Farm of the Tolstoy Foundation some 20 miles out of New York.

Friday evening, the night before my scheduled sailing, Porojniakov came home from the consulate, where he served as secretary, unusually early. I was jittery and suspicious. He looked over the bundles and the suitcases in my room, and asked me how many heavy pieces I had sent off to the express company. I was wondering if my surreptitious visits to the anti-Soviet Russian had been spotted.

Drugged In Sleep

I RETIRED late that night. As was my habit, I went into the kitchen to get something out of our common refrigerator for a snack. Usually I had tea, sometimes a glass of milk.

I was known as a light sleeper. The slightest noise would awaken me. I had the reputation of never being late at school. That night I slept like a drugged person. Not once did I wake up. And when I rose in the morning, my head was as heavy as lead. I ascribed my condition to my nervous tension.

When I emerged from my room, Porojniakov was already up and about, an unusual procedure for him. He stared at me intently and then called my attention to a couple of red marks on my right arm. I looked at them in astonishment, not having been aware of them before.

"Oh, it's just nerves, must be a rash," I remarked, dismissing the matter. At the time nothing else could have entered my mind.

It was only many days later, when I was already recovering from my injuries in the Roosevelt Hospital, that my experiences during that night assumed a sinister significance. The note of Molotov to the United States Ambassador was read to me, in which the Soviet Foreign Minister had put special emphasis on the cause of the spots on my arm as they were exhibited to the press while I was held in the Soviet consulate. I then recalled my condition during the night of July 30.

Molotov accused my imaginary abductors of "violently administering a narcotic substance to Kasenkina clearly with the purpose of weakening her will."

This fantastic invention provided a clue to the mystery of those marks on my arm. If Porojniakov had slipped some drug into my food, inducing deep sleep, it would have been no problem for him to enter my room and administer a couple of hypodermic injections. After all, in the show trials of the Great Purge the official Soviet records cite evidence of the NKVD use of such methods.

Pobeda Sails Without Me

CAME the critical morning of July 31. I bade goodbye to Porojniakov, whose wife was in the country, and left by cab for the pier. Porojniakov said that he would be at the boat later.

On the way I had fears of possible pursuers. I proceeded to Zenzinov's apartment where he awaited me. My tension must have been near the breaking point.

Most of my hand luggage I left in Mr. Zenzinov's place, where it is still reposing at this writing, before proceeding to the Tolstoy farm. The suggestion was made that I spend the week-end in a New York hotel, but this terrified me. I wanted to get out of New York as quickly as possible.

Nearly all my savings had been sunk in articles which were at that moment being loaded onto the Soviet vessel. Mr. Zenzinov and I traveled by motor bus to the farm which was to be my shelter.

When I arrived at the restful Reed Farm, to be welcomed by the gracious Alexandra Tolstoy, I thought that my woes had come to an end.

Tomorrow: Reed Farm and what Mrs. Kasenkina found there.

Boost Steel Output

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The Indian government plans to step up the country's steel production by a further 1,000,000 tons annually, it was learned Monday. Three sets of foreign experts, including representatives of British and United States firms, are drawing up blueprints of alternative schemes. The dominion's steel production for 1948 is estimated at 825,000.

Savings Bonds In Good Demand In B.C., Directors Report

Early returns received at Canada Savings Loan headquarters in Vancouver indicate that employees of B.C. companies are signing more heavily for series three savings bonds, than in the first two series.

First company to report was Powell River with 263 applications totaling $78,500 or an average of over $300.

Pacific Mills at Ocean Falls reported that 546 applications have already been signed. This is the same number as 1947 but bonds subscribed totaled $64,000 more. Cansass is still in progress.

H. J. Bird, coast organizer for the loan, reports, "the three big mills at Ocean Falls, Powell River and Port Mellon have, through their employees' committee, indicated that they are shooting for 80 per cent employee participation in the loan. The national average is 42 per cent."

In Victoria the New Method Laundries' employees in two days signed on for $8,500. Their total last year was $7,700.

One C.P.R. department has reported that 90 per cent of employees have bought bonds.

"Employees are definitely confirming the pre-loan prediction that they are anxious to buy Canada Savings Bonds. In most companies so far reported that average bond sale is in excess of 1947," said L. F. Worsley, B.C. payroll director.

Forced To Leave His $40,000 In Eire Bank

VANCOUVER (CP)—Nick Florante, who has $40,000 in a Dublin bank, is back at the old stand—shining shoes.

Nick won the money in the Irish Sweepstakes last March 9 but can't bring it home under present laws.

He has just returned here after a visit to Dublin, and to Rome, where he saw his parents for the first time in 25 years. "I got myself fixed up in Dublin," he said, "and they didn't take out hardly any for taxes. Maybe the government will change their regulations sometime soon."

He plans to buy more sweepstakes tickets. First of the Dandies, finishing second, brought him good fortune in the Grand National at Aintree, England, last March.

New Civil Defence Co-Ordinator Brings Wide Experience To Task

Maj. Gen. F. F. Worthington (left) talks with Defence Minister Claxton.

OTTAWA (CP)—The first step of Maj. Gen. F. F. Worthington as Co-ordinator of Civil Defence Planning, the official announcement of his appointment today said, will be to plan the co-ordination of federal departments that would be involved in civil defence—defence, health and justice. The next chore would be to decide and arrange the part provincial and municipal authorities would play in an emergency.

'WORTHINGTON APPOINTED'

The formal announcement of his appointment said that the first step would be to plan the co-ordination of federal departments that would be involved in civil defence—defence, health, and justice. The next chore would be to decide and arrange the part provincial and municipal authorities would play in an emergency.

Government sources said they do not consider the time has come to start digging deep shelters and involving people in full-time civil defence activities. On the other hand, they made it plain they consider the time has come—partly for morale, partly for strategic reasons—to prepare for some future day.

One authority close to defence planning emphasized the unlikelihood of Canada ever bearing the brunt of an enemy attack which he felt would inevitably be directed against Canada's more formidable friends.

QUALITIES DISPLAYED

"We are fortunate to have a man of Gen. Worthington's proven qualities to undertake this important job," Mr. Claxton said in announcing the appointment. "During his career as a soldier he displayed great qualities of leadership in addition to high administrative capacity."

"In each of his commands he was highly successful in gaining maximum civilian support. As commissioner for the Red Cross he played a major part in dealing with the Fraser Valley flood situation. He knows every part of Canada and is liked just as well as he is known."

Gen. Worthington was one of the pre-war officers whose ideas about tanks first seemed orthodox and then became the essence of orthodoxy in the last war. He was Scots born and American raised. His first battles were fought in a revolution in Nicaragua.

He joined the Black Watch in Montreal as a private in 1914, went overseas in 1915 and, except for a short period in hospital recovering from a wound, stayed at the front until the end of the war. He was a captain with two Military Medals and two Military Crosses when it ended—and the nickname "Fighting Frank."

He was a lieutenant-colonel in the Canadian army's permanent force when the last war started and took the 1st Canadian Armored Brigade to Britain for training. In 1942, he was appointed major-general, commanding the 4th Armored Division.

Gen. Worthington, known in the army as a "McNaughton man," returned to Canada before the invasion of Normandy. He was appointed commanding officer at Camp Borden in February, 1944. At the end of the war he became G.O.C., Western Command, with headquarters at Edmonton. He retired seven months ago.

WANTES TO KNOW ALL

During the war Gen. Worthington issued a document which he sent to staff officers in his division. It declared, among other things, that "I have a great thirst for information and I expect to be kept informed on all matters. I want my information quickly and when it is hot. Cold information is of little value in war. Note this point carefully."

This document, intended to tell staff officers the type of general they were serving, contained other points. They were informed the general realized that anyone who does anything also makes mistakes. He promised staff officers who admitted their mistakes that might "brown them off." Nevertheless he would help them out of their hole. He warned against becoming yes-men. He told them in advance that he was likely to blow off steam. He listed several things he hated.

These latter were slackness in discipline, failure to obey orders, stupidity, officers who didn't look after their men, neglect or

Want Further Probe Into Arthritis Cure Claims By Lou Green

Saanich Ward Four ratepayers are not satisfied that the ideas of Lou F. Green, non-medical arthritis practitioner from Alberni, are of no use. At a meeting Monday night, the ratepayers decided to ask for further investigations by the medical profession into Mr. Green's claims of being able to cure the disease.

Saanich council will be asked by the ward property owners to do something to stop flooding conditions on Panama Flats, Marigold district.

Important municipal matters will be discussed at the Nov. 15 meeting of the association and a full turnout of members was urged.

abuse of vehicles, deception and disloyalty.

People who remembered these things about Gen. Worthington usually got along all right. The rest were posted.

At one stage during the war Gen. Worthington became the author of a prophetic remark.

Not long before the invention of the Germans' V-weapons and the Allies' atomic bomb, he commented:

"The secret weapon has not been discovered yet. It might be right under our noses. We must keep looking."

He had an open mind on the subject of secret weapons, however.

"Buck Rogers," he added, "might win this war yet." (See story "Former Tank," Page 15.)

Held In Oakalla On Murder Charge, Plans To Marry

VANCOUVER (CP)—Frank A. Saunders' common-law wife may marry him today in a cell at Oakalla Prison.

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer, who called off the ceremony Monday, because it would complicate the murder charge Saunders now is facing, may reconsider his decision.

Beatrice Lisner was living with Saunders when he was charged with murder following the alleged abortion death in his house of an 18-year-old Vancouver woman last month.

Miss Lisner said she obtained the marriage certificate Monday and waited tearfully at the prison gates while Warden John Millman conferred about the service with Mr. Wismer.

"The matter will be thoroughly investigated," Mr. Wismer said Monday night, "and if there is no valid reason why the ceremony should not be performed it will take place."

Miss Lisner said she went to the prison Monday with the understanding the marriage would be performed. She was accompanied by Rev. Eban Baker of Vancouver and two of Saunders' sisters for witnesses.

"We were all ready to have the ceremony performed," she said, "when Warden Millman held up his hand and said he would have to get Mr. Wismer's permission first."

"This was the first I knew about anything not being right. When Mr. Wismer refused to let us go ahead I was dumfounded."

The tearful bride-to-be explained she and Saunders had been living together as man and wife, and had intended to get married "later on."

But when "this trouble" came, she said, "we decided to marry right away."

"I love him very much. I want to marry him and will stand by him."

Ottawa Orders D.P. Camps In Manitoba Investigated

WINNIPEG (CP)—Conditions in Manitoba work camps for displaced persons came under federal government scrutiny today after charges that misery and squalor abounded and that food was so poor all 65 men in one camp once were sick simultaneously.

Arthur MacNamara, Federal Deputy Minister of Labor, in Ottawa Monday night ordered an investigation when it was reported that some D.P.'s on sugar beet farms were enduring poor accommodation, food of poor quality, crude sanitation and washing facilities, scanty and grimy blankets.

Mice were reported to be able freely to enter the shacks in which the men were housed. The men said the mice had chewed holes in shirts, trousers, underwear and bedding. It had become the custom for the men to hang any prized garments from centre rafters in the punkhouse to prevent such damage.

H. R. Richardson, director of the Manitoba government's farm help service which has jurisdiction over the camps, said he had "never heard of any complaints about tenant conditions at the camps."

SEEN BY REPORTERS

The charges about miserable conditions involved two camps housing 80 men, one at Emerson and the other at Letellier. The company employing the men at these two camps also operates two other smaller camps at St. Agathe and Homewood. Reporters for the Winnipeg Tribune, which carried the first story of the camp conditions, visited the Emerson and Letellier sites.

The 65 men at the camp near Emerson are all single and came from Poland, Yugoslavia, Ukraine, Latvia and Estonia. Four buildings make up their camp—three for living quarters and one for a cookhouse.

Engineering Masterpiece At Bridge River Opens Saturday

Special to the Times

BRIDGE RIVER B.C. — One thousand workmen, who have overcome what appeared to be insurmountable obstacles in the constructing of the first unit of the B.C. Electric's $22,000,000 hydro-electric development here, are now in a whirlwind finish to have everything ready for the formal opening on Saturday.

Completion of this unit will see the expenditure of roughly $15,000,000 of the overall project, which, by October, 1949, is scheduled to bring two more similar units into operation. Much of the work completed for the first unit will meet the requirements of the remaining two.

With considerable pride engineers in charge of the project point to the outstanding job which Vancouver contractors have done in meeting the demands of the construction job, the most spectacular of its type ever undertaken in the province.

It is spectacular chiefly because it is the only hydro unit of its kind with such a "high head" and because of the huge task of harnessing nature which was accomplished to bring it to reality. Nowhere on the North American continent, in the knowledge of engineering experts on the job, is there a development which has a 2,200-foot pipeline laid down a 41-degree mountain slope. And no where, say these same experts, is there a 130-mile transmission line which penetrates such rugged country as the British Columbia hinterland lying between Bridge River and Vancouver.

Loudest in the praise of what these contractors and their workmen have accomplished is Thomas Ingledew, vice-president and chief engineer of the B.C. Electric, under whose direction falls the task of co-ordinating the overall effort.

TRANSMISSION LINE

While reticent about singling out any particular jobs which had been done, Mr. Ingledew referred to the accomplishment of the electrical contracting firm of Hume & Rumble in building the transmission line. In all there are 38 steel towers which carry the power lines from the plant to Vancouver.

More than 400 miles of line were strung over these towers at altitudes which ranged from 2,100 feet to sea level. Starting in September, 1946, crews worked out of more than 25 different construction camps.

Another major undertaking was the manufacture and installation of the massive 2,200-foot penstock. The manufacturing job was done by the Vancouver Iron Works and the installation by the Arrow Transfer whose vice-president, C. S. Bouchard, had to design special equipment to carry it up the hillside.

Built in 40 foot sections weighing 30 tons each this pipeline tapers from a 1.5 to 2.25-inch thickness and required clockwork precision in its manufacture.

Chest Campaign Is Now Above $50,000

Greater Victoria's Community Chest campaign has reached and exceeded the $50,000 mark, George Randall, campaign organizer, said today.

Day to day tallies are increasing, he said, and there is every indication the $180,000 objective will be reached this year.

Persons who have not yet been contacted by a door-to-door canvasser, can mail or send their check subscriptions to campaign headquarters in Prince Robert House, he said.

A peaceful stretch of Florida beach turned into a whales' graveyard as 44 pilot whales beached themselves nine miles north of St. Augustine. Some of the monsters, ranging from 5,000 to 6,000 pounds, are shown here. Observers say they committed suicide by "following the leader," who flopped up on the beach.

Steel Cut Won't Hit Power Commission

An official of the B.C. Power Commission said today that no slowdown in the completion of the commission's developments is expected to result from the reduction of steel imports by Canada from the U.S.

It was announced in Ottawa Monday that imports would be cut by 18 per cent during the last quarter of the year. In Vancouver the steel cut was termed a sledge-hammer blow to B.C. industry.

Maj. Gen. W. W. Foster, member of the three-man commission, said today that the commission had already placed orders for the steel it would need for its development and no postponement of deliveries was expected.

The commission's two major developments currently under way are the John Hart development at Campbell River and the Whatsham development near Nakusp.

Weather

Weather synopsis and official forecast issued at 9 a.m., Tuesday, October 19, by the Dominion public weather office at Vancouver, valid until midnight Wednesday, October 20:

Britain Planning Big 1951 Festival

LONDON (Reuter)—Present-day uncertainties will not affect Britain's determination to stage a great festival in 1951 to attract hundreds of thousands of visitors from all over the world.

Gerald Barry, festival director, said in an interview that 1951 for Britain will be a year "of gaiety, festivity, of the fun and games which the bitter circumstances of the last few years have denied us."

The plans he outlined include a central exhibition of British life and of British contributions to civilization, travelling exhibitions in provincial cities, separate Scottish and Welsh exhibitions and an eight-week London festival of music, opera, ballet, theatre, music hall shows and films. The dominions and colonies will participate.

Former Nazi Eastern Front Marshal, Brauchitsch Dies

HAMBURG (AP)—Walter von Brauchitsch, former German field marshal, died Monday night in a British military hospital here where he was under guard awaiting trial as a war criminal. He was 67.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Charlotte von Brauchitsch, wife of the field marshal, is not expected to live through another night, officials of the military hospital said. She is also suffering from coronary thrombosis, a heart ailment. She had been a patient in a German civilian hospital, but was taken to the military hospital to be with her husband in his last hours.

Von Brauchitsch had faced trial with three other leaders of the German army of the Second World War—Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt and Erich von Mannstein and Col. Gen. Adolf Strauss—all in British custody. A British army announcement said von Brauchitsch died of coronary thrombosis. He had been placed on the critical list only three hours before.

THREE IN HOSPITAL

Von Rundstedt, Von Mannstein and Strauss also are in the military hospital. All four were taken there last month, and placed in comfortable quarters under constant guard. Previously they had been held in a prisoner-of-war dispersal centre.

Foreign Secretary Bevin recently announced in the House of Commons that U.S. investigators had turned up evidence establishing a prima facie case against the four German military men. The British authorities had intended to begin the trial in Hamburg next January.

Von Brauchitsch became commander-in-chief of the German army as a result of a sensational cabinet shake-up by Hitler in 1938.

Brauchitsch remained commander of the German army until it bogged down in the Russian snows before Moscow. Hitler fired him Dec. 20, 1941.

Fed Up With People Going Without Guides

OTTAWA (CP)—The police and members of the armed forces are "getting fed up with people who want to go into Canada's hinterland without guides," R. A. Gibson of the resources department said here.

Speaking at Dominion-Provincial tourist conference Monday, Mr. Gibson said tourists should not go into remote areas without trained guides who "at least can bring them back alive."

There had been cases, he said, where tourists without guides had gone into far regions and become lost. They had caused serious trouble and it had cost the government a lot of money to rescue them.

"They made a lot of headlines, but they cost us a lot of money," said Mr. Gibson.

MARSHAL von BRAUCHITSCH

ness for the German high command at the Nuernberg war crimes trials, that Hitler did not usually allow his top officers to resign but that an exception was made in his case because Hitler needed a scapegoat for the huge German losses on the Russian front.

Brauchitsch, a prototype of the old Prussian soldier, had a powerful influence in Hitler's cabinet decision just before Germany invaded Poland.

With Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering and Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, Brauchitsch was the third member of a triumvirate which guided Germany in the first years of the war.

Before the war Brauchitsch's troops had marched into Austria and Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland with Prussian precision which reflected their leader's military capabilities.

A "TICKLISH" DISCUSSION

AFTER HE HAD RETURNED TO CAPEtown from the Imperial Conference of 1926—the first he had ever attended—the Union of South Africa's Prime Minister James Barry Munnik Hertzog said he had reached the conclusion there was little his country could gain outside the British Commonwealth that it could not get by retaining its membership in the Empire family. He had seen the light; his traditional belligerency had undergone substantial mellowing.
His behaviour after the outbreak of the Second World War is now beside the point.

It is interesting to recall this bit of history in view of the fact that the Prime Minister of Eire, Hon. John A. Costello, is anxious to sever the last remaining link with the Crown which the constitution of Southern Ireland had preserved under the provisions of the External Relations Act of 1936. None will deny his right to assume that the electors to whom he is responsible will endorse his desire to have this statute repealed. The whole system of gradualism in evolutionary processes reflected by the policies pursued by successive British governments since the passage of the South Africa Act by the Parliament at Westminster on September 20, 1939, has pointed the way for any member state in the British family to "cut the painter" when and if it so desires.

In view of the ticklish nature of the discussion now engaging the attention of the meeting of Commonwealth Prime Ministers in London, however, it is fitting to recall that the original constitution of the Irish Free State came into operation in the early part of December, 1922. Certain of its provisions were regarded as distasteful to the national sentiments of the Irish people, and were gradually removed by successive amendments, with the result that by the end of 1936, the text differed in several important particulars from that of the original document. Into the law passed in 1936, the Dail, incidentally, wrote a specific provision declaring that Eire's diplomats abroad and foreign representatives in Dublin were accredited through the King in conformity with the general British procedure.
It is this basic feature of the External Relations Act which the head of Eire's government and his colleagues now desire to have removed from the constitution. The result of such action, of course, would be the elimination of the last tie with the Crown, a friendly link set forth in formal terms in the Statute of Westminster.

In any discussion of Eire's status as a loosely-associated member of the British Commonwealth of Nations, it is interesting to note that as recently as June 19, 1946, Mr. de Valera, then Prime Minister, said: "Eire is an independent republic associated, as a matter of external policy, with the states of the British Commonwealth." Moreover, one of the definitions included in the Constitution approved by the Dublin Parliament, and enacted by the people by means of a plebiscite on July 1, 1937, was that of national status. This reads as follows: "The constitution declares that Ireland is a sovereign independent, democratic state. It affirms the inalienable, indefeasible and sovereign right of the Irish nation to choose its own form of government, to determine its relations with other nations and to develop its life, political, economic and cultural, in accordance with its own genius and traditions." It may be remembered, too, that this amended constitution was intended by Mr.
de Valera and those who considered Ireland's status as he did, that "pending reintegration as national territory, the laws enacted by the Parliament established by the constitution shall have the same area and extent of application as those of the Irish Free State."

In other words, Mr. de Valera knew, as his successor as Eire's First Minister knows, that Ulster, composed of the six northern counties, has not shown nor is likely to show any inclination to approve the abolition of what, to use a short term, is the policy of partition. Inherent in this present political condition of Ireland as a whole, therefore, is an ancient religious feud with which most of the world by this time is thoroughly familiar.
But it will be for the government at Dublin to decide for itself, and for the people for the conduct of whose business it is responsible, whether the repeal of the External Relations Act will be good or bad business for an important section of Eire's Isle. Some may recall General Hertzog's dictum.

THE COLORED CURTAIN IN THIS NEWSPAPER YESTERDAY WAS published a photograph of a classroom in the University of Oklahoma, showing a partition behind which a Negro student was forced to sit in order to conform with state laws regarding segregation. The Negro's registration, upheld by a ruling of the U.S.
Supreme Court, broke the university's 58-year-old ban against people of his race, so that his presence in the picture was in a sense a victory.

But the humiliation of that partition—and we mean the humiliation that should be felt by the rest of the class, not by the man behind it—remains a blot on western democracy. One wondered, looking at the picture, what subjects were being studied in that classroom. Were the lecturer and his students perhaps analyzing the Declaration of Independence, or reviewing the American constitution? Were they discussing and condemning the racial nonsense promulgated by Adolf Hitler, to stamp out which thousands of Americans lost their lives? Or were they perhaps trying to apply the enlightened approach of pure science to the problems of the world?

The evil of racial intolerance is not confined to the University of Oklahoma nor to the area south of the 49th parallel. It is a problem all too prevalent in our own country.
While it lives, our democratic way of life is made unworthy. Our heritage of freedom, of which we love to talk, is besmirched. The enemies of democracy are given sharp weapons and our own defences are weakened.
That photograph will not provide a very good advertisement for North America in the Moscow papers.

WHAT IS THE EXPLANATION?

CANADIANS GENERALLY WILL NOT be satisfied with the Dominion government's statement, through acting Prime Minister C. D. Howe, that "the case is closed" concerning the four French immigrants who are being allowed to remain in this country in the face of French charges that "these men are traitors and must be brought back to France to pay for their crimes." The men entered Canada as much as two years ago under assumed names, which, it has been explained, were adopted merely to facilitate their departure from France. The government of their native land has charged them with collaborating with the Germans during the war. One of the men has been sentenced to death for his alleged war crimes. Warrants are still in force against them.

Under such circumstances this Dominion can have little excuse for shutting the books and declaring that "the case is closed." The public interest demands that a full investigation be held and a full explanation given.
No political, religious, economic or other consideration should have any place in shielding war criminals from justice. If these men are innocent, and are so found by their own government, then there will be plenty of time to permit their entry as immigrants, under their legal names, if they are otherwise suitable. If they are in truth guilty, then common justice—to say nothing of the memory of thousands of Canadians who died to stamp out Nazism—should demand that they suffer the due process of the law.

A WAITING GAME

THERE MAY HAVE BEEN MORE THAN coincidence in the fact that the same day's news reports carried the statement of Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States commander in Germany, that Soviet expansion "will not only be halted, it will recede," if the western allies stand firm, and a second item from Berlin detailing economic and political problems that are arising in the Russian zone.

The distinguished American general is not the first to suggest that the internal evils and repressions of the Soviet system are sufficient to cause an eventual breakdown of the totalitarian scheme of living, if appeasement does not provide it with a measure of success. It is perhaps too early yet to hope for that event, but the Berlin dispatch could easily be the minor forerunner to a greater collapse in the future.
German Communist leaders in the Russian zone have themselves admitted that widespread "anti-Soviet elements" have been discovered in the party ranks, perhaps reaching into upper circles. They have complained of members who grumble about poor economic conditions and who criticize "parasites" in the public administrations.
And they have called for a purge—a typical Communist procedure—to rid their organization of the defectors.

On the economic side, there has been official admission that production objectives have not been achieved in the Russian zone, although industry in western Germany is in many cases booming. Food also has been short in the east, with consequent public unrest. Huge Communist police forces were organized to "protect the young democracy" of eastern Germany—a move which under totalitarianism can mean only one thing.

Such developments, although they indicate merely trends rather than definite stages, in disintegration, lend considerable strength to the words of Gen. Clay and others who support his view. Queerly enough, it is a principle similar to that which the Kremlin itself has enunciated from time to time in respect of western democracy. According to the Marxists, capitalism contains within itself the seeds of its own destruction. Soviet economists eagerly await the depression that will, presumably, submerge capitalistic democracy in chaos.
With both sides "giving the other enough rope to hang itself," we are banking on democracy to come through. Throughout history the human being has always ultimately thrown off tyranny and oppression to permit his soul to survive. It cannot be otherwise in the present conflict.

CONFIRMATION

IT SEEMS AN IMMENSELY LONG TIME ago that we heard of the death of Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun in a dugout in Berlin.
It came as something of a surprise, therefore, to read recently that the former Fuehrer and his wife have been tried by a denazification court in Frankfurt. Hitler, according to the court, would have been classified as a "major offender" had he lived to hear of it. Eva was described as "a beneficiary of the Nazi regime." On these counts, and lacking their personal residence, their property, amounting to some $60,000, was confiscated. The legalities have now caught up with fact, and we may henceforward presumably let the matter drop. It was gratifying, however, to have a formal court confirm our suspicion that Hitler was a "major offender." We certainly guessed that one right!

Walter Lippmann

AN IDEA FOR THE DEMOCRATS

THE CONCRETE ISSUE remaining between Mr. Truman and Mr. Dewey is whether the Democrats or the Republicans are to "organize" the Senate. What is at stake, or at least may be at stake, in all this traveling which is so tiresome to the audience, is not the Presidency, and not the House of Representatives, but the Senate.

That is the only substantial reason left why Mr. Truman and Mr. Dewey continue, as the first Marquess of Halifax put it more than two centuries ago, "throwing fireballs to put men into heat."

THE PARTY WHICH HAS a majority in the Senate organizes it. This means that it is conceded a majority in the committees and its party man, selected because he has been on the committee longer than any of his colleagues, becomes the chairman of the committee. The substantial issue, therefore, is whether Vandenberg or Connelly is to be chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, Bridges or McKellar of the Appropriations, Gurney or Tydings of the Armed Services, Millikin or George of

No one is quite sure whether the contest for the Senate is in fact as close as it is in theory. But there is undoubtedly a possibility that though Dewey becomes President by a large electoral vote, and though the House has a strong Republican majority, the Senate might have a nominal Democratic majority. This could happen because the Republicans have vulnerable candidates in Iowa, Minnesota, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Tennessee, West Virginia, Wyoming, and Illinois.

AS A MATTER OF FACT, in most if not all of these uncertain states the Democratic candidates are not only more attractive to independent and progressive voters but are, on the great issues, much closer to Governor Dewey, and more likely to support him. On the bipartisan foreign policy, on an enlightened domestic program, Mr.
Dewey would in fact do better, and have less trouble, if Anderson were to defeat Hurley in New Mexico, if Kefauver defeats Reece in Tennessee, if Paul H. Douglas could defeat
Brooks in Illinois, if Revercomb of West Virginia and Robertson of Wyoming and Wilson of Iowa were retired from the Senate.

The odd, and disconcerting, fact about the situation is that in order to keep Senator Vandenberg as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, it is necessary for Governor Dewey, and indeed for independent voters, to work for the election of Republican Senators who have always opposed the measures which Senator Vandenberg stands for.

IS THIS NOT a foolish predicament? That in order to support Senator Vandenberg it appears to be necessary to work for his opponents, and to defeat men who would, in fact, be among his ablest and best supporters?

Is there no way out of it? Must a voter who believes it essential that Vandenberg remain where he is, wish to see Brooks of Illinois, who always votes against Vandenberg, win over Douglas, who could be counted to vote with him?

There is a very easy way out of this predicament. A handful of Democratic Senators, who are not themselves candidates this year, have only to announce that if the Republicans win the Presidency and the House, and if the control of the Senate depends on a few votes, they will abstain from voting and permit the Republicans to organize the Senate.

SUCH A MOVE would shock the party hacks. But as a matter of fact it would serve the cause of good government and also the interests of the Democratic Party. The Democrats as a party have much to gain by electing able and enlightened men. But they have nothing to gain by taking nominal control of the Senate against a Republican President and a Republican House. They will only provide an alibi for whatever does not go well. They will be taking responsibility though in reality they will have only the power to obstruct. So it would be much better for the government, and for the nation, and for the Democratic Party, if the Dewey administration had full power and full responsibility.

I DO NOT SUPPOSE that Senator Barkley can afford to sponsor such a move. But there are more independently placed Democratic Senators who could do it. By doing it they might well help considerably the Democratic candidates in the doubtful states.
There may be quite a few voters who would like to see Anderson, Douglas, Gillette, Humphreys in the Senate and yet do not want to have a divided government, do not want Vandenberg to lose his leadership of the Foreign Relations Committee.

They would be much less inhibited in their support of the progressives against the reactionaries and isolationists if they knew that the Democrats were not going to insist on organizing the Senate.

THOUGH GOVERNOR DEWEY, like Senator Barkley, could not participate in such a move, he would in fact also be helped by it.
He would be under much less pressure to work for the election of Republicans who,
when elected, will obstruct and oppose him.
He could still go through the necessary motions of party regularity. But he could view with a certain detachment and considerable equanimity the possibility of the defeat of men who, though they are nominally his party colleagues, are actually his formidable opponents in all that he will wish to achieve.

My wife and I had the pleasure of spending two weeks in your beautiful and pleasant city during the past summer and, frankly, we fell in love with it and your citizens. We have already very definitely decided to spend two months instead of two weeks in Victoria next summer and we are seriously thinking of making it our future home.

In the meantime we know of no better way of keeping in

MR. THORNLEY REPLIES

I am sorry to have missed Mr.
Averill's letter of Sept. 30. It has been brought to my notice and I wish to answer in part. Assertion and denial by myself and Mr. Averill are appeasement beside the point. Facts are facts.
I would like to point out that, strange as it may seem, I know as little of Goebbels as I know of Mr. Averill, and British plutocracy was British plutocracy to me before Goebbels.

The "tiny bit of appeasement" of Mr. Averill's, was, so far as I am concerned, the cause of a war which need not have happened.

The main reason I wrote my previous letter was to point out that Hitler could have been stopped short of war; that to do so meant a Socialist Germany and later a socialist Europe.

Mr. Geoffrey Roy says (Times Oct. 15): "Trials of British housewives are chiefly due to labor shortage, result of only one girl serving where four would prevent a queue, also that the degree of food monopoly imposed in each home depends on the degree in which the ancient art of economy in food matters has been revived," which latter statement means, in plain language, that English housewives can get as much and as varied imported food as they choose. He also tells us, that surprising frankness, that "half-truths are no better than fallacies," which is perhaps why he comes out with Machiavellisms that are not even half true.

It is officially admitted that England's standard of living is now lower than it was in 1946.
Letters from hitherto so patient English friends, show them increasingly exasperated.

Lately, housewives were to be cheered with a pound of rice each, which promise petered out, owing to "trouble in Burma." I was in England this summer.
Sometimes I tried, when hungry, to fill up on a bun. It was like trying to masticate a rubber ball.
Many English restaurants smashed. Remaining ones overcrowded. Tens of thousands of elderly people suffering effects, direct or indirect, of air raids,
have difficulty collecting rations, let alone scrambling for seats in restaurants.

Toughest obstacle to the Oxford Group's scheme of world domination is Britain with its ingrained parliamentary system.
Heartless reiteration that England's food is ample is because Britain's Commonwealth ties are strengthened by food-parcel friendships. Also reiteration that all is well means a feather in Cripps' cap.

Czechoslovakia lost its freedom largely by means of the wealthy "Oxford Group," working in that country under the name of Christian Socialism.
GLADYS SHRAPNEL, 1578 Clive Drive.

SCIENCE PLUS

Appreciation for the clear thinking in James Thrasher's column "Science Is Not Enough."
He said, "... It still seems that the only force that can achieve world unity is the force of individual morality and humanity exercised through world governments."

Following that reasoning, is a most heartening account of a course of action taken by one distinguished scientist last year.
The article is by Carl Dreber, in "Trends and Tides."

In this article, Mr. Dreber refers to the courage of Dr. Norbert Wiener of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who has been described as one of the world's foremost mathematical analysts, and whose scientific skill played a significant part in winning the war, but who wrote a letter to another scientist, refusing him the information he had requested, on the ground that he did not wish to have anything to do with preparation for another war. Among other things Dr. Wiener said:

"If therefore I do not desire to participate in the bombing or poisoning of defenceless peoples — and I most certainly do not — I must take a serious responsibility as to those to whom I disclose my scientific ideas.
Since it is obvious that with sufficient effort you can obtain my material, even though it is out of print,
I can only protest pro forma, in refusing to give you any information concerning my past work. However,
I rejoice at the fact that my material is not readily available, inasmuch as it gives me the opportunity to raise this serious moral issue.
I do not expect to publish any future work of mine which may do damage in the hands of irresponsible militarists. The interchange of ideas which is one of the great traditions of science must receive certain limitations when the scientist becomes an arbiter of life and death."

By REILMAN MORIN
Associated Press News Analyst
(For DeWitt MacKenzie)

A MAN who once "was the most devoted Communist in the United States" has written a book about communism.

It may poison your dreams, if it does not prevent you from sleeping entirely. Nevertheless, it is an important book because of the man who wrote it, and because, in many respects, it is like a key to a secret cipher. It will help you to decode the strange, unpredictable, and often contradictory tactics of the Communists.
The book is called "The Whole of Their Lives" (Charles Scribner's Sons). The author is Benjamin Gitlow.

Gitlow was the head of the American Communist Party in 1929.

He made three trips to the Soviet Union on official business of the party. He knew Josef Stalin personally. He rose to this eminence because, for many years, he was a whole-souled believer in the movement and more important, because he had character and brains.

For the same reason, he says,
he no longer is a Communist.

Gitlow disagreed with and defied Stalin on a matter of principle. (He is one of the few who lived to write the story of it) and he says that caused him to break with the entire movement.

RELIABLE SOURCE

Let's see what he has to say about communism.

Question 1—Do you doubt that American Communists and their fellow-travelers get direct orders from Moscow?

Gitlow writes: "Stalin took over the American Communist Party lock, stock and barrel, in the middle of May, 1929, by a series of decrees promulgated by him and read by Molotov." Gitlow adds: "In 1919 the American Communist Party became a branch office of Moscow. Moscow made the decisions governing the actions of the American Communists."

Question 2—Do you wonder sometimes, in the light of Soviet pronouncements, whether the American system and the Russian system can get along together?
Gitlow says: "From the days of Lenin to the supreme ruler, Stalin, survival of Soviet power and communism is held impossible unless capitalism, with its political and social structure is destroyed."

Question 3—Does it puzzle you to see the agreements made at Yalta, Tehran and Potsdam so blandly disavowed by the Soviet Union today? Gitlow has many statements on Communist integrity. Here are two of them:
"Communist policy is never simple. It is always complex and paradoxical. A momentary policy is always tied up with a long-range basic policy. This accounts for the many twists in the party line." And again he says: "Communist leaders may with impunity break one day the solemn pledge they made the day before."

LABOR IMPORTANT

Question 4—Why are the labor unions so important to the Communists? Gitlow writes, paraphrasing Stalin himself: "Without support in the unions the Communist Party cannot make a revolution... by getting control of unions, the Communists mean getting control of those unions in the decisive, the basic industries of the land, the industries upon which the economic life of the country depends."

These are all the statements of the man man who helped to organize the Communists in North America, who knows the dialectic of the party, used its tactics, and was an intimate of its orthodox leaders, as well as having been one himself.

TRIGGER-HAPPY

Ottawa Journal
At Bronte, Ontario, three youths entered a drug-store, demanded money of the proprietor, and one of them shot the druggist in the stomach before he had time to open the cash register. This country is infested by a plague of revolvers, and "trigger-happy" younger thugs seem to have no difficulty at all in getting firearms and ammunition.

PROPORTIONAL

Exchange
The continued high levels of income taxation press hard on all levels of income and are understandably the cause of much public discontent. The official statistics show, however, that the steeply graded rates of tax bear with particular voracity on the middle and higher income brackets, with lighter burdens imposed on the individuals of lower income.

U.N. Woman Says Men Talk Too Much

PARIS (AP)—A woman delegate suggested Monday the men were talking too much in the United Nations' social committee.

"We're now in a crisis," said Minerva Bernardino of the Dominican Republic. She urged the men to "hold back the avalanche of bitterness" which she said had turned the 58-member committee's deliberations into an east-west cold war.

The committee's dozen or so women delegates had been "more reserved" in the debate on a proposed human rights declaration, she added.

A few minutes later the Greek delegate was demanding the floor to reply to Ukrainian charges and the Bolivian and Costa Rican representatives were accusing Russia of applying smoke screens and moral coercion.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A bronze bust was unveiled Monday to the late Senator G. G. McGeer, the ironworker who rose to become twice mayor of Canada's third largest city.

The bust was unveiled before hundreds of citizens outside the city hall which Mayor McGeer built during his 1935-36 term in office.

Worrying No Help, Says Beaverbrook

WINNIPEG (CP)—Worrying doesn't help any, said Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook when arriving in Winnipeg Monday for a one-day visit.

The British newspaper publisher, who is on a western tour that will take him to Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria, refused to be pinned down about world affairs during a brief interview.

"But," he said, "I would have been dead long ago if I hadn't learned the secret of how to stop worrying."

No CBC Time

OTTAWA (CP)—A. D. Dunton, chairman of the board of governors of the CBC, said in an open letter to Tim Buck, national leader of the Labor Progressive Party, that the L.P.P. is not eligible for free national network time.

The letter was a reply to one received from Mr. Buck requesting free time, such as is accorded other political parties on the CBC's "Nation's Business" series.

One thing which would make the L.P.P. ineligible under present regulations, Mr. Dunton said, was the fact that the party has had no representation in the Commons.

Marshall Hopes For Long Peace

ROME (AP)—Secretary of State George C. Marshall arrived here Monday, en route from Athens to Paris.

In a brief statement as he stepped from his plane, he said: "I hope for a long peace."

Foreign Affairs Minister Carlo Sforza hailed Marshall's visit as "a new proof of friendship between us and the United States." He said the visit would be "consecrated to the purposes of peace."

Seek Atom Spy

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Federal Bureau of Investigation agents today sought a burglar who, one police inspector explained, "could have been searching for atomic data."

Private papers in the study of Francis R. Bichowsky, a University of California scientist, were ransacked but valuables elsewhere in the closed house were undisturbed.

Bichowsky, an instructor in thermodynamics and an observer of the atom bomb tests at Bikini, was out of town. Friends said he might be attending atomic energy conferences in Washington.

Emerson W. Eaton, 560 Kerr Avenue, Saanich, was fined $40 and had his driver's license suspended in Esquimalt police court Monday when he was found guilty on a charge of dangerous driving on Esquimalt Road Oct. 2. In the same court, Gerald May received a $40 fine for driving while his license was under suspension.

College Students Prepare For 'Open House'

Many phases of work at Victoria College will be shown outsiders Saturday when the U.B.C.-affiliated institution holds annual "open house" from 3 to 5 in the afternoon. Classroom scenes like the one above will be seen. Biology students working with microscopes in Prof. J. A. Cunningham's laboratory are, left to right: Walter Lewis, Connie Armstrong, David Welch and Evelyn Jack.

Interesting paraphernalia in the chemistry laboratory will be on display. Many other exhibits are in the store for visitors as well. Faculty members will be on hand to meet parents and friends of students, and refreshments will be served. Preparing for the "open house" are chemistry students Nona Butts, Tom Wickham and Fred Bailey.

Seriously Injure Two Zoo Employees

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Two men were injured seriously Monday in a 90-minute battle with two chimpanzees which had escaped from their care at the Mesker Park Zoo on the west side of Evansville.

Four sheriff's deputies, half a dozen policemen and several zoo officials joined in the melee, which ended in the death of the male chimp and the recapture of his mate.

George Davis, 53-year-old employee of a plumbing company, and E. J. Morton, 45, general foreman of the Evansville Park Board, were taken to hospital for treatment after the battle.

The animals, "Hank" and his mate "Kuku," broke loose by cracking the lock on their cage. They attacked the two men in an adjoining cage, where a check was being made on the heating system.

Davis said he and Morton had stopped work to get a drink of water when they noticed the animals were free.

"One of them jumped Morton," Davis said, "and while I was looking for something to beat the chimp off the other one jumped me. I broke away and climbed a ladder to the roof. The chimpanzee climbed after me. We grappled on the top of the animal building."

The plumber said another bare-handed tussle took place and then "the chimpanzee and I both fell off the roof. The chimp landed on top of me and started fighting again when someone came and drove him away."

Meanwhile, Morton, who was trapped in the cage with the other chimpanzee until the animal turned and half ran from the cage, suffered multiple lacerations on his hands, arms and legs. Morton's shoulder was dislocated and he lost consciousness before rescuers took him to hospital.

Hank, the male of the pair, ran to an empty alligator pit in the park, where he was shot and killed by Bob McGraw, the zoo's animal superintendent.

McGraw later captured Kuku on the edge of Highway 66, which is located near the zoo.

TORONTO (CP)—A coroner's jury last night recommended that city and suburban race tracks keep a fully-manned ambulance on hand during races to "insure the safety of other jockeys."

The jury was investigating the death of Willard Abrams, steeplechase jockey, who was fatally injured at Woodbine Park Oct. 2 when his mount, Rice Cake, fell on him. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

Speedier Consultation Methods Studied By Commonwealth Chiefs

LONDON (CP)—The Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference today resumed debate on international affairs, with particular attention to the European situation. This section of the debate had been postponed to await the arrival from Canada of Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, acting Minister of Justice, who replaced Prime Minister King, resting under doctors' advice.

Two committees formed Monday are the first, and perhaps the only ones, to be established by the Commonwealth leaders, to whom they will report back after their deliberations.

High officials worked late Monday night trying to find new and speedier methods by which Dominions may consult each other.

Members of the other committee worked equally late trying to find a new name and a higher status for Dominion high commissioners, who, in the present diplomatic order, rank lower in precedence than foreign ambassadors.

AT VARIOUS STAGES

Those studying improved methods of consultation were particularly concerned with ensuring that international questions could be discussed by Dominion statesmen not only at a mature but at a formative stage.

Monday Eire held the spotlight at the deliberations, following the Sunday talks on the future of Eire, which is expected to repeal the External Relations Act, its

Reviews History Of Gyro Organization

History of Gyro International was reviewed by George Darling, past president of the Nanaimo Gyro Club, at a Victoria club meeting held Monday noon at the Empress Hotel.

The first Gyro Club was formed in 1912 by three students attending university in Cleveland, Ohio. Other clubs were formed when members of this first group graduated and moved to other cities.

The first club in Canada was formed in Toronto shortly after World War I, the speaker noted.

"Gyro is not strictly a service club," Mr. Darling said. "It is, instead, an organization which has as its objective the furtherance of friendship between individuals, states, provinces and nations."

The speaker was introduced by William Hudson and thanked by George Gregory.

Winter Pays Early Visit To Midwest

CHICAGO (AP)—Wintry weather which scattered snow in the Appalachian Highlands and set record cold marks for this date in the United States mid-west and south will nip the north-eastern states severely tonight.

The weather bureau predicted the mercury will touch the mid-20s over most of Pennsylvania tonight and dip to 18 degrees in New York city's suburban area.

The current chill wave rolled into the Gulf States today, bringing an unaccustomed minimum of 39 to Mobile, Ala., where three schools closed because their heating systems were undergoing repairs and were not in condition to cope with the cold.

However, temperatures in the plains states were rising rapidly today and maximums of 60 or more were predicted for Chicago tomorrow following Sunday night's sharp freeze.

Warren William, who appears in "The Man in the Iron Mask," Edward Small production being re-released by Producers Releasing Corporation and now at the Plaza Theatre, is the ninth screen actor to portray the swashbuckling role of D'Artagnan. Others who have played this much beloved role of the famous Alexandre Dumas character, are Douglas Fairbanks Sr., Walter Abel and Don Ameche.

ROYAL THEATRE
Randy Stuart, blonde Twentieth Century-Fox newcomer who plays a featured role in "Apartment for Peggy," credits William Holden who is starred in the Technicolor production, with starting her on the road to becoming an actress.
On the set of the picture now showing at the Royal Theatre, Randy told Jeanne Crain, co-starring as Holden's wife in the film, why she chose the movies as her career.
"I saw Bill Holden in 'Golden Boy' 10 years ago," she said. "He gave me my inspiration. I told myself that if a young man could play a leading role in his first picture, there was hope for me."

50 Gypsies To Play
At Funeral Service
For King Violinist

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The notes of 50 gypsy violins and the flashing color of gypsy costumes will accompany Andrew Margitza to his grave Thursday.
Margitza, known as the king of the gypsy violinists, wanted in death the music he loved so much in life.
As he lay dying Sunday, the 60-year-old violinist told his son, William:
"Assemble the old musicians, the young musicians and the very young musicians and have them play for me, in the grand manner, when they lower me down."
He asked his son to have his host of friends and relatives don the garb of their forefathers and form a parade to St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church and thence to the cemetery.

There, on the bleak hills, the casket will be opened. And the old musicians, the young and the very young will sound the haunting, unwritten strains of the gypsy dirge: "I Am Leaving You Forever."
Margitza, who came here from Hungary, played in orchestras in Omaha, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit. He passed his love of music to his six children, William, Julius, Louis, Alex, Mildred and Martha.
Julius plays in a Detroit orchestra and Louis plays in Chicago.
He wanted his grandchildren to know the magic of music too.
"Teach them to sing and dance and play," he begged. "There is no other way to live."

Victoria Man Heads Pharmacists' Chapter
J. E. Smith of the Royal Jubilee Hospital in Victoria Monday night was elected president of the newly-organized British Columbia chapter of the Canadian Society of Hospital Pharmacists.
Other officers named were P. S. Cunningham of Vancouver, vice-president, and Miss M. McKim of Vancouver, secretary-treasurer.
The society's 24 members hoped to extend usefulness of hospital pharmacists, provide a means of conveying pharmaceutical information to members and make pharmacy an important part of the whole program of health services.

Actor Stewart Plans To Fly Next Year For Bendix Trophy

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Never say die is the theory of James Stewart, whose Bendix Air Race entry went down in defeat last month. He'll try again next year.
"I'm getting a new engine for the plane," says Jimmy, "and if I'm not working and have time enough to get in shape, I'll fly it myself."
The actor is busily preparing to portray pitcher Monty Stratton. "I've found all sorts of new muscles," he says. "The other day I got a charley-horse in my hip. I wasn't doing a thing at the time; I just moved."

PECK DEAL
Gregory Peck has finally figured out his contract deal. He calculates he has three more films to make for Selznick, one apiece for M-G-M and the 20th-Fox.
"That'll take about two and a half years," reports Greg, who is now enacting "The Great Sinner" at M-G-M. After his contracts are over, Greg will start making big money.
Ann Blyth finally gets a chance to sing—in "Top O' the Morning" with Bing Crosby. She has a good voice, but hasn't been given a chance to warble since she started playing adult roles.
Doris Day was left waiting at the altar—and by Errol Flynn. For the final scene of "Two Guys and a Gal," she is supposed to marry Flynn and she was doled up in a wedding gown for the event. She waited all afternoon on the set and Flynn failed to show up.

OFFICE TROUBLE
Virginia Mayo faces a tonsillectomy after "Colorado Territory." She was discussing her low-cut smock in the picture: "We're always having trouble with some office in this business; if it isn't the Johnston office, it's the box-office."
Let-down of the week: Jane Wyman arriving at the "Johnny Belinda" premiere without Lew Ayres or Ronald Reagan. Biggest acclaim of the evening went to a couple of kids named Shirley and John Agar.

ATLAS THEATRE
Dana Andrews, Jean Peters, Cesar Romero and Anne Revere were subjected to an occupational hazard that was a pleasure while on location in Vinalhaven, Maine, for the filming of Twentieth Century-Fox's "Deep Waters," which is now at the Atlas Theatre.
The natives, pleased with having a movie unit in their midst, provided accommodations for the players in their own homes, and the housewives, long noted for their New England cooking, went all out to keep the cast happy.

RIO THEATRE
Warren Douglas featured as a police sergeant in Monogram's newest Charles Chan adventure, "The Chinese Ring," starring Roland Winters and now playing at the Rio Theatre, was far more excited on the set one day than an actor usually has a right to be. But he had a good reason. That morning, before he came to the studio, his wife gave birth to their first child, a girl, whom they named Ann.

CAPITOL THEATRE
Topping the list of "musts" is the new Warner Bros. romance of the Old West, "Silver River," which re-unites Errol Flynn and Ann Sheridan. This sweeping epic is currently at the Capitol Theatre, to continue for a week's engagement. Those who prefer their cinema fare exciting and colorful will certainly not be disappointed in "Silver River." It carries the action to a dramatic climax, is richly mounted and peopled and projects a moving love story against the far reaching horizons of the 1860's.

YORK THEATRE
Loretta Young, who played the part of an ambitious Scandinavian farm girl previously, is now seen as the neglected wife of a mid-western clergyman in Samuel Goldwyn's latest production for RKO Radio release, "The Bishop's Wife," now at the York Theatre. Cary Grant, as a mystery man, and David Niven, as the harassed Bishop, have the other stellar roles in the gay offering. Monty Woolley heads the featured cast as a friend of the Bishops family, and has troubles of his own, which are corrected by the quest along with those of the Bishop's household.
Historians estimate that gloves were in use more than 300 years ago.

Personal Notes

Mrs. R. Hank is a visitor from Winnipeg, the guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Element, Island Highway, Langford.

Miss Gillian Gooldeen of Royal Oak was among visitors in England who registered at British Columbia House in London last week.

Mrs. Colin Graham, who will leave at the month-end for Vancouver, is at present the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Angus Kenning, Langham Court.

Miss Sheena Smith, R.N., Langford, V.I., formerly of the staff of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, is now on the mainland, studying public health nursing at the University of British Columbia.

Mrs. John Hanbury, who has been spending the summer in Vancouver, Calgary and Winnipeg, has now returned to Victoria and is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hanbury, at their home on Beach Drive.

Mrs. C. Smith and Mrs. R. Patrick entertained at a home-coming tea in the Empress Hotel lounge on Sunday afternoon in honor of Mrs. J. Reid who is leaving shortly on a trip to Great Britain. A corsage bouquet of gardenias and rosebuds and a traveling case were presented to the guest of honor. Mrs. H. A. Bruce and Miss Shirley Young presided at the tea table and Miss Madonna McCabe and Miss Shirley Anderson acted as servers. Other guests were Mesdames M. MacWhinnie, N. MacWhinnie, W. Fish, A. Anderson, L. Young, M. McCabe, D. Reynolds, V. Slavin, E. Whyte and Miss Louise Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Willis of Aruba, Netherlands West Indies, are visitors in Victoria, the guests of Mr. Willis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Willis, 426 Michigan Street. The young couple will be in the city until Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop Wilson were hosts to over 50 guests at an after-five party at their home, Parmlinter Road, North Salt Spring Island. Sprays of chrysanthemums and roses were placed throughout the rooms. White tapers in silver holders centred the refreshment table. Miss Joan Wilson assisted her mother.

Mrs. E. Aubrey Walls entertained at her home on Hewlett Place at the tea hour to honor Mrs. Kenneth Triggance of New Zealand. While in the city Mrs. Triggance is the guest of Mrs. Walter H. Harlock, Robertson Street. Mrs. Harlock was a tea hour hostess at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel recently in Mrs. Triggance's honor. There were 22 guests. Mrs. June Davies and Mrs. Esme McNeill presided at the urns.

To honor Mrs. Arthur Nobbs, whose marriage took place recently, a miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. F. Reid and Mrs. C. Wagg at the latter's home, Ganges Harbor, Salt Spring Island. The room was decorated with arrangements of daisies, ferns and pink and white streamers. Gifts were contained in a decorated box placed on a toy wagon and drawn into the room by little Leslie Wagg and Stuart Reid. Guests were Mesdames A. Nobbs Sr., H. Hareus, J. D. Reid, R. Gordon, M. Gardiner, J. B. Foubister, E. Reynolds, S. J. Wagg, C. Beech, T. Fowler, R. Toynbee and B. Krebs.

Parent-Teacher Group Gives Awards For 'Better Reading'

Culminating an experiment planned and carried out in Victoria during the summer, through the educational committee of the British Columbia Parent-Teacher Association, to inculcate better reading habits among children, a special ceremony was held at a meeting of Margaret Jenkins P.T.A., Monday evening, in which 32 boys and girls received certificates and gold stars.

The vacation reading club idea, tried for the first time in Victoria, was limited to one district, and was planned in collaboration with the children's department of the Victoria Public Library.

Of the 32 boys and girls in the group, 13 read from one to seven books, while 19 read eight or more books. Among the 19, five boys and girls qualified for special gold star awards through reading travel books from a suggested library list.

Awards, presented by Mrs. Ernest Evans, first vice-president, B.C. Parent-Teacher Association, were made as follows: Margaret O'Neill, John Davies, Grace Chamberlain, Bryan Lillie, Janet Allen, Ingrid Hateary, Jean Harris, Myra Johnson, Roberta Hammon, Gael Stott, Judy Potts, Keith Murray, Earl Large, Sara Robertson, Joan Whitwell, Marion Keddie, Sally Gardom, Diana Gardom, Maxine Herbert, Ainsley Marryatt, Maureen Squire, Barbara Wallace, Sharon Henslip, Eileen Douglas, Margaret Baird, Susan Lewis and Dianne Winter.

Gold stars and world maps, prepared by Miss Sybil King, children's department, Victoria Public Library, for reading travel books, went to Catherine McElmoyle, Judith Selwood, Florence Hall, Nancy Statham and Myra McLean.

Results of the experiment have been so gratifying both in Victoria and Vancouver, it is the aim of the provincial parent-teacher association to make the project a yearly one, and to take in more school districts.

The local parent-teacher committee that has been working for suppression of crime comics was in charge of arrangements for the vacation reading club in this city. Mrs. T. W. A. Gray was general convener.

I.O.D.E. Sends Many Parcels To Britain

Thirty parcels of clothing are being sent to Great Britain every month through local chapters of the I.O.D.E., it was reported by Mrs. J. F. C. Blowey, postwar convener, at a meeting of Municipal Chapter at headquarters Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Blowey also reported 193 articles of clothing valued at $183.31, 24 nursery bags and 70 toy animals sent to the Queen Elizabeth Hospital in London.

Mrs. J. L. Ford presided and Mrs. F. E. Dowdall, organizing secretary, spoke briefly on increase in membership in the order.

Other reports were given by Mrs. H. Woolson, treasurer; Mrs. G. Mellor, child and family welfare; Miss Christine MacNab, endowment fund.

Named to attend the semi-annual provincial meeting in Vancouver with Mrs. Ford were Mrs. W. R. Hobbs, educational secretary, and Miss Gladys Clarke, standard bearer. Mrs. G. Lillie was appointed Poppy Day convener.

New regent of the Royal Bride Chapter, Mrs. F. Ritchie, was introduced and it was announced that Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps had been appointed regent of Thunderbird Junior Chapter.

Tea Will Honor Chapter Members

Members of Florence Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E., will be special guests at a tea in the sunroom of the T.B. pavilion, Royal Jubilee Hospital, on Thursday afternoon, at 3.15.

Mrs. W. R. Hoskelly, chapter regent; Miss Mary Irvine, pavilion supervisor; and Mrs. T. Lumsden, honorary vice-regent and hospital convener, will receive the guests, among whom will be Dr. Murray Anderson, hospital superintendent; Dr. F. O. R. Garner, clinic superintendent; Miss L. Ford, Municipal regent; Mrs. Walwin L. Williams, provincial ex-service personnel convener; Mrs. H. G. Southin, Municipal ex-service personnel convener, and officers of Victoria Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E.

Invited to preside at the tea table are Mesdames James Baker, F. Hueflin, St. Clair Kitching and H. A. Porter; as servers, Mesdames J. L. Gates, M. Fyfe, H. Catterall, L. A. Lucas, G. C. Pinhorn, K. Mills, B. Ripley, Moulson Smith, H. Ker and H. O. Simpson.

Mrs. J. P. D. Chadwick is arranging a musical program. The sun room has been redecorated and refurbished by the Florence Nightingale Chapter.

P.T.A. News

Brentwood—At the October meeting of Brentwood P.T.A., held at West Saanich School, eight new members were welcomed. It was decided that in November meetings would commence at 7.30 and would be held on the third Wednesday of each month instead of the third Tuesday. Principal reported on the Halloween party to be held on Oct. 29 in the W.I. Hall. P.T.A. will assist with refreshments and arranging for costume prizes. Final arrangements were made for the Country Fair to be held this Friday in Brentwood Badminton Hall from 7 to 11.30. It was announced that many helpers would be needed to meet at the school Thursday to prepare and set up games, booths and stalls. Owing to the increase in membership, it was decided to hold a cup and spoon shower at the November meeting.

'Girls In Green' Like To Travel

LONDON (CP)—Smart, single girls, preferably under 30, who like travel and adventure, are in demand just now as government "Girls In Green."

The girls in green are the official car drivers of Britain's delegates at international conferences. They are paid an average of £5 ($30) a week plus cost-of-living bonus, but the chief inducement to join is foreign travel.

There are 47 such girls in Paris today and they will be there until the end of the year. Another 46 returned recently from Geneva.

In London the girls drive high government officials from one place to another. Abroad they drive foreign as well as British delegates.

Pay varies according to the size of the car driving. The average wage is £4 10s. a week for 44 hours' work, but there is overtime besides and double time for Sundays. Uniforms are free and the girls get 17s. 6d. for each night spent away from depot.

152 D.P. Girls Head For West

TORONTO (CP)—A group of 152 displaced girls are heading for western provinces to work as domestics after a final screening at nearby Ajax by the National Employment Service.

All the girls originally came from the Ukraine and Poland, but were taken from their homes by the Germans and forced into work camps inside Germany. After liberation they lived in displaced persons' camps until they got this opportunity to come to Canada.

"When I got this chance to come to Canada I jumped at it," said a 22-year-old girl called Ida.

One of the few girls who can speak English, Ida is interpreter for the whole party. Although she studied medicine for two years in a displaced persons camp, she prefers work here as a domestic to staying in Germany.

Through a system of interviews, each girl's characteristics, abilities and temperament are carefully matched with requirements of the employer. When the girls are placed language classes will be arranged.

Working Surface At Elbow Level, Boon To Housewife

NEW YORK (AP)—Take a look at your elbows, madame, if kitchen chores are back-breaking drudgery.

Efficiency engineers, watching women baking pies, peeling potatoes and washing dishes, have found that the comfortable, restful height of your "working surfaces" parallels your elbows.

So, if your kitchen counter is waist high, stop worrying about that pain in your back. Start rearranging your kitchen. It's not as hard or expensive as it might seem.

The New York Heart Association, interested in saving the energy of thousands of homemakers who must take things easy, has developed a "work simplification" kitchen. Primarily designed for women with impaired hearts, most of the ideas can be happily adopted by the hale and hearty.

The Heart kitchen has two work counters: one for such activities as baking which use long handle implements; the other for food preparation using short utensils. The baking counter is 32 inches high—so you don't have to reach up to wield an egg beater. The other is set 36 inches above the floor, so you can scrape carrots with arms comfortably placed, elbow height, in front of you. Of course, if you are an outsize, it's always possible to work sitting down from a chair which places you at the proper working height.

Much thought and effort has gone into the actual planning and arrangement of the kitchen. The committee, headed by Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, efficiency engineer, concentrated on putting every item in a spot where it could be reached without wasted steps.

STORED NEAR SINK

Fresh vegetables, saucepans, knives and such items are stored near the sink, because you usually use them with water—and it saves a special trip to the faucet. Roasting pans, skillets, canned vegetables (and the can opener) are within arm's reach of the stove—point of original use.

It takes extra energy to bend and stretch, so the experts have used higher shelves and low drawers to stow utensils and foods which are used infrequently. Shallow shelves, they found, are work savers, too. You don't have to remove a stack of saucepans to reach the frying pan.

By rearranging one woman's kitchen in an experiment, Dr. Gilbreth and her associates were able to cut down one-sixth the number of steps a woman took to make a coffee cake. She had been wasting five out of every six steps by poor planning.

The Heart Association's work-simplification program isn't confined to the kitchen. Its experts recommend long-handled dust pans and brushes, as well as mops and carpet sweepers, to save backs. They suggest using dust mits instead of cloths, so both hands can be used at the job. They sing of ironing joys, when the board is low and the ironer is comfortably seated at a chair. They advocated lightweight metals in all utensils used.

Including the women with cardiac diseases, there are between four and five million disabled housewives throughout the country who have reason to conserve their energy output," Dr. Gilbreth. "These women unquestionably constitute the largest group of employed disabled in the United States."

Louis XIV once paid $14,000 for a pair of buttons.

Special Detail Adds To Simple Frock

New fall fashion's direct attention to detail that adds to the careful line of that special all-purpose black frock will thrill every woman whether young in years or only in heart. Women Are Fickle; Stylists Love It

VANCOUVER (CP)—Women are fickle, but, say two United States hair stylists, hairdressers love them for it.

"We make our living from it," Raymond Huot and Enrico Caruso, New York experts, yesterday told more than 200 hairdressers attending the Western Canada Beauty Trade Conference.

And the women hairdressers, outnumbering the men three to one, agree.

"Women may like the new short-cut style this winter," they say, "but come spring and they'll want something different—an up-sweep, pigtail or a bun."

Huot and Caruso, with more than a decade of practice in New York and Paris, are giving refresher lectures in which they bring out some interesting comments on the current style trends.

"Short cut hair with a fringe all around—in a halo effect—is the most popular style today."

"For the first time in history milliners and hairdressers are working together. The new hair style tends to blend the hairline into the hat."

We are using about 20 different styles, they say. "To pick the right one, a hairdresser must visualize the woman as his date for that night—the way he would like to see her wear it."

Well-Known Baritone Presented In Concert

Stanley Hoban, baritone, who is to present a program at the Epperson Hotel Wednesday evening, in the first concert of the season under auspices of the Victoria Musical Arts Society, has recently been heard at Bellingham. Music critics there say "He displayed a robust, flexible voice of good musical quality, remarkably clear enunciation, both spirit and intelligence in interpretation, and gift of dramatic projection."

Music Recital

Miss L. M. Simpson held her annual pianoforte recital at her home, 3268 Millgrove Street, where many friends and parents attended.

Those taking part in the recital were Evelyn Cooper, Sharon Frewing, Betty Brabner, Marilyn Ballentyne, Bernice Berryman, Dicky Midgley, Ann McLennan, Grace Dyson, Maureen Deacon, Don Deacon, Charmaine Elgood, Barbara Stewart, Michael Snelling, Gary Jones, Reg Midgley and Edna Limer.

At conclusion of the program, certificates from the Associated Board of the Royal School of Music, London, were presented for: Theory, Grade 1, Grace Dyson, Ann McLennan and Maureen Deacon; theory, Grade 2, Edna Limer; preliminary piano, Donald Deacon, Edward Lanning, Barbara Stewart and Ann McLennan; Grade 1, piano, Grace Dyson.

Is Scotch, Scotch?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States government took up today the question of whether there can be a Scotch whisky that doesn't come from Scotland.

That is one of the issues that finds U.S. distillers and importers divided at the start of a three-day hearing before the Internal Revenue Bureau's alcohol tax unit over possible changes in rules for labeling and advertising imported whiskies.

"Scotch" made here has to be described as "Scotch type" under present rules, which date back to prewar years.

Says Preparedness Best Assurance Against Outbreak Of Another War

E. E. M. PIERCE
... home after three years in Germany.

Increased defensive preparedness on the part of the western powers, in the opinion of E. E. M. Pierce, who has just returned from Germany, will do more to prevent another war than anything else.

Russia is seeking to gain control of the world. In an effort to accomplish this objective it will follow one of two ways. Either it will work by bluff, through fear and other similar means or else it will wage war.

This latter course, Mr. Pierce believes, Russia does not want to follow.

Russia will start a war only if it believes it is capable of carrying it to a successful conclusion. For this reason, measures should be taken at once by the democratic countries of the world to show the Russian leaders a war started by them would not be a push-over affair.

A Victorian who went overseas in World War II and attained the rank of major, Mr. Pierce has observed the international situation during the past three years from inside Germany, while on service with the Control Commission of the British Foreign Office.

From talks with junior-grade Russian officers, whom he met during the course of his duties, Mr. Pierce found that the Russian people believe the masses in all English-speaking countries are enslaved by capitalists.

"They believe Communism is our only hope, and think we're fools for resisting it," Mr. Pierce says.

"Ninety-nine, nine-tenths per cent of the German people hate the Russians, and are determined to resist Communism. They have put their trust in the western powers."

On this point, Mr. Pierce continued:

"Britain and the United States gain nothing by staying in Berlin except prestige. But they must continue to stay there. If they were to leave or let themselves be pushed out, the faith of the Germans in us would be completely broken."

As proof of the German people's preference for the western powers, Mr. Pierce pointed to the present population trend of Germany's estimated 70 million citizens. Twenty-five million Germans now are living in the British zone; 15 million are in the Russian zone, and the remaining 30 million are in the American and French zones.

"For about three years the Germans went through the most trying conditions any people could be subject to," Mr. Pierce said. "They lived on starvation rations—750 calories a day." (It is estimated the average Canadian's diet affords him 3,000 or more calories a day.)

"I saw children playing in the streets with legs like broomsticks. I saw people walking about with practically no clothes and no ability to buy clothes. . . . There were practically no houses and hardly any weatherproof buildings in all of the major cities with the exception of Hamburg."

There was no coal for domestic use for two consecutive winters.

"I had to admire the determination the people displayed. They never complained."

The Germans, Mr. Pierce found, are industrious, clean and tidy people. He liked these qualities but despised them for some of their other characteristics.

POLITICALLY UNCONSCIOUS

"The Germans are politically unconscious. They have no individual interest in government. They are happy just as long as they have someone giving them definite orders."

This attitude, Mr. Pierce believes, is partly responsible for the acclaim the Germans gave Hitler.

"The only thing wrong with Hitler in the eyes of the Germans today is that he lost the war," Mr. Pierce found.

Turning to the work of the British Control Commission, Mr. Pierce explained the commission went into operation immediately after V-E Day when Germany was taken over by a military government.

Operating in the British zone, the commission's job was to establish peace-time industry, provide an adequate standard of living for the people and completely destroy Germany's war-making powers by the destruction of her munition works, arsenals and fortresses.

The past three years has seen this work progress to a point where it now nears completion.

The greatest commission achievements came immediately following June 20 of this year when the German mark was revalued and new money issued.

"The value of the mark was cut 90 per cent, and persons having 50,000 or more marks had to explain how they had come to have so much."

Up until this time, black markets had flourished, Mr. Pierce said. Following the money change, however, black markets ceased to exist and goods came out from basements onto counters at a price the common people could afford to pay.

Building of badly needed houses also started after the new marks were issued.

"Conditions in Germany are still far from good, but at least they are improving," Mr. Pierce concluded.

NOTABLE DISCOVERY

Well-preserved organic remains of red blood corpuscles have been discovered in skeletons of Swedish Vikings buried 1,000 years ago. Dr. Wilhelm Graf, head of the histological department at the medical faculty at a university in Stockholm, also found traces of blood vessels and cartilage around the joints.

General In Charge Of Prisoners Admiral Face War-Crimes Trials

TOKYO (AP)—Gen. MacArthur's headquarters today filed war crimes charges against the admiral who headed Japan's navy at war's end and a general who was in charge of Allied prisoners of war.

Admiral Soemu Toyoda and Lt. Gen. Hiroshi Tamura will go on trial separately before Nov. 1. In each case, a seven-officer commission will be named by MacArthur to hear the charges.

The trials will be on a general headquarters level, an echelon above the United States army's war crimes prosecution at Yokohama but below the 11-power trial of ex-Premier Hideki Tojo and 24 others.

Toyoda and Tamura are the first of 20 high Japanese military and political figures originally scheduled to be tried as class "A" criminals accused of waging aggressive war. Instead, prosecutor Joseph B. Keenan turned them back to the headquarters' legal section for trial on charges of crimes against humanity and customs of war—class "B" and "C" offences. The remaining 18 suspects are under investigation.

Tamura is charged with responsibility for mistreatment and neglect of Allied internees in Japan when he was chief of the prisoner management bureau from December, 1944, to the surrender.

Toyoda is accused of command responsibility for a wide pattern of atrocities committed against countless Allied personnel and civilian populations while he was commander-in-chief of the combined fleet from May, 1944, to May, 1945.

No Funds Available To Build Sidewalks

Too few dollars in the municipal treasury again caused concern for members of the Esquimalt Council Monday night when it faced two petitions from property owners.

One, signed by 18 property owners in the 1100 block on Wychbury Avenue, asked the council to have the avenue paved; while the other, signed by eight residents of the 900 block Wolston Street, asked for a sidewalk.

The first suggested paving be undertaken before the wet weather sets in. "We will be unable to have any heavy deliveries unless the street is paved," it said.

Councillors expressed the feeling they would like to have the work done but did not know what they could use for money.

Regarding the request for a sidewalk, councillors were informed that this year's estimates provided no money at all for the construction of new sidewalks yet $171 had been spent for this work. Also, that $200 had been set aside for sidewalk repairs and that $118 of this amount was gone already.

With these facts before them, councillors could do nothing but file the petition, under the heading of "work to be done in the future."

"We'll certainly have to allow more for sidewalks in next year's estimates," Councillor J. A. Ellis noted with eyebrows raised.

'Money Well Spent'

"Money that will be well spent," was the way Councillor A. C. Wurtele referred to a $75 grant made by Esquimalt Council at its meeting Monday night to help pay for a Halloween Party which will be given Esquimalt schoolchildren on the evening of Oct. 29.

The councillor's comment followed hearing of a report that certain other municipalities were cutting down on their annual Halloween grants.

"Never mind," Councillor Wurtele observed with a smile. "Kids can do untold damage on Halloween if they're allowed to run around loose. These organized parties will keep the amount of damage down."

Saskatchewan Farmer Tells How He Clears His Place Of Rats

REGINA (CP)—The Pied Piper of Hamelin had his method of disposing of rats. Russell McLean, who farms near Hazel, Sask., has another and more deceptive means. And he doesn't carry a flute.

The farmer's method may be a bit expensive if employed on a large scale, but for a one-man war on rodents he says it has proved effective.

In theory, McLean's rat-disposal theory is simple. It reads like a housewife's recipe: Mix as much salt as possible into some butter or cheese and have a large pail of water nearby. The rats will gobble up the butter or cheese like the rats they are—naturally. But because the tasty morsel has so much salt mixed in with it, the rodents will become exceedingly thirsty. That's where the pail of water comes into the picture. The pests will go to the nearest water to quench their thirst.

The rodents are so preoccupied with their thirst, says McLean, that they climb into the pail of water and drown.

Care should be taken, however, to see the pail is not full of water so they can swim around on top and climb out.

But it's advisable to be cautious in dealing with the rodents, he warns. They sometimes have a trick up their sleeves, too, figuratively speaking.

BURNED A BARN

He referred to the sad case of one of his neighbors. The fellow saw a rat run into a hole in the ground.

He poured gasoline down the hole after the rat, then tossed a lighted match. The hole belched flame—and a rat.

But the rat, all ablaze, scurried from the hole to the neighbor's barn.

The barn burned down. McLean doesn't recommend this system. His own method is more practical. You can lose more barns the other way.

Esquimalt To Ask For Rush-Hour Bus

Esquimalt Council at a meeting Monday night decided to appeal to the B.C. Electric through the Greater Victoria Transportation Commission for an extra bus to run from the city centre to Esquimalt village Monday through Saturday during the 5 o'clock rush period.

The decision was made following a report from Reeve A. I. Thomas who said he had watched Esquimalt-bound buses every evening for a week and had found them to be so loaded between 5 and 5.30 that they had to pass up many people waiting on street corners.

The grievance was irritated that Esquimalt housewives were occupying space on the rush-hour buses which, he considered, should have been taken by shop girls and working men.

"I cannot see why the shoppers can't come home from the city before 4 so the rush hour buses would be available for those who really need them," he said.

The reeve also commented on children using the 5 o'clock buses on Saturdays.

"I saw some of them last Saturday hanging around in the city during the afternoon, and then riding home in the workmen's buses. It isn't fair."

The council will ask that an extra bus leave the corner of Yates and Douglas at 5.10, travel across the Johnson Street bridge, follow Johnson to Esquimalt Road and follow Esquimalt Road to Admiral's Road. This, the council feels, will considerably relieve overcrowding.

Police Seek Motorist

A driver who failed to see if a boy on a bicycle who crashed into the rear of his auto when it was stopped at an intersection was injured is being sought by Saanich police. Robert Clough, aged 14, the cyclist, told police the car was a 1937 or 1938 brown coupe. He added that when he hit the rear of the car, the driver turned and looked, but drove away. The accident occurred about five Sunday afternoon at Tillicum and Gorge roads. The lad was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for an injured neck.

U.S. Presidential Candidates Preparing For Final Drives

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the United States presidential election just two weeks off, the candidates are preparing their final drives for big-city votes.

President Truman's program today included two speeches in North Carolina in his second invasion of the southern states where he is opposed by Democrats who regard his civil rights program as a threat to states' rights.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the Republican candidate, is resting in Albany, N.Y., following his latest campaign tour of the midwest states.

Henry Wallace, head of the Progressive Party, pushed his drive in Pennsylvania. He spent most of Monday in Pittsburgh seeking support of rank-and-file union members by attacking labor leaders, who he said, had joined with the "enemy"—corporations.

Following Truman's brief southern visit he is due to start his campaign wind-up Saturday with a flight to Pittsburgh. Next week his schedule will take him to Chicago, Cleveland, Boston, New York and St. Louis.

Dewey plans to resume his personal-appearance tour Wednesday night with a speech on the New York Herald Tribune's Forum. Thursday night the Republican standard-bearer will address a New York dinner honoring the late Alfred E. Smith, former New York governor and democratic presidential contender in the 1928 campaign.

In his speech at Pittsburgh Monday, Wallace did not mention any labor leader by name. But he did talk about the men "who built the steelworkers' union"—which is headed by C.I.O. president Philip Murray, an outspoken foe of Communists in the labor movement.

When three eggs splattered on the platform Wallace said: "This looks familiar, folks. There must be some southerners here."

How Much Money Have You Yet To Earn?

Multiply your annual income by the number of years you expect to work before retiring. This is the money which you, your wife, and family are counting upon to provide the necessities of life—food, shelter, clothing—throughout future years.

The only way to make sure that all this money isn't lost to you and yours, if you should become totally disabled or die, is to have adequate life insurance and have it properly planned to serve your needs.

Looking to the future, Canadians have already arranged for One and a Half Billion Dollars of life insurance through the London Life. You may benefit from this Company's experience by getting in touch with a London Life representative.

American League Draws Over 11 Million Fans

CHICAGO (AP)—The American League, spurred by the crowd wacky Cleveland Indians and an unprecedented flag battle, played before an all-time record paid attendance of 11,500,099 fans this year.

The official season figures were disclosed Monday by league president Will Harridge.

It was the first time either major league had reached the 11,000,000 mark at the turnstiles. The American loop's tightest race in history was climaxed by its first title tie-off — between Cleveland and Boston.

The world champion Tribe packed a staggering total of 2,620,627 into mammoth Cleveland Stadium for an all-time single club season record.

The league's 11,000,000-plus topped by 1,528,917 the previous season high of 9,621,182 set in 1946. And it was 1,564,030 over 1947.

Along with Cleveland, New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics smashed their own season records.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

The National League drew 9,822,502 baseball fans during the 1948 season, a decrease of 5 per cent from last year's high, unofficial figures compiled by the Associated Press showed Monday.

Bill Meyer's Pittsburgh Pirates, a surprise contender until the final weeks of the season, packed 1,517,490 into Forbes Field, cracking by 239,959 the park's record set last year.

Boston Braves, winning their first pennant since 1914, also broke their own mark with 1,455,438. That was 178,077 better than the 1947 record.

The Dodgers got off to a poor start with the club slumbering in the second division but closed strong in the second half of the race to go over the 1,000,000 mark with 1,400,559. That was not far behind Boston's total for a winner.

Failure of New York Giants in the last part of the season was one reason for the drop of 139,296 at the Polo Grounds. The Giants still pulled in 1,461,497. St. Louis Cards couldn't quite match their high of 1947 but they still topped the million with 1,113,490, a decrease of 134,423.

Stewart Beefs Show Why Umpires Should Be In Chandler's Hands

Arbiters Now As Partisan As Players

By HARRY GRAYSON
CLEVELAND—Bill Stewart's three rhabarbs in the World Series was something in the way of evidence that major league umpires should be hired, fired and assigned—all season—by the baseball commissioner.

While they call them as they see them, of course, umpires are now also as partisan as the players.

Each of the 13 or 14 umpires in each wheel comes in contact with the athletes of each club in something approaching 40 games a season.

Naturally, the combatants and the arbiters become friendly. The smarter managers and players, especially catchers, go out of their way to be nice. They inquire about the plate ump's family, and whatnot.

After all-star games, I have heard umpires of the winning circuit say: "Well, we fixed those League so-and-so's." They get as big a bang out of the victory as the members of the winning side.

LOTS OF JOCKEYING

During the 1934 series between the Cardinals and Tigers, I heard a veteran National League umpire upbraid Goose Goslin unmercifully in a packed Detroit hotel elevator simply because the Detroit outfielder spoke to him. Goslin had protested a decision or decisions, of the umpire the previous afternoon.

Called out on close plays by an umpire of their loop, players down through the years have said: "You're a fine American Leaguer," or vice versa.

To members of the club ruled against, the umpire of one league calling a tough one against the representatives of the other too frequently becomes "an American League son of a sea cook," and the bench jockeying begins.

That's what happened at Braves Field when Lou Boudreau of the Indians and a lot of other people believed Bob Feller had picked Phil Masi off second base in the eighth inning of the first game of this fall's World Series, and Stewart, a National League umpire, called the catcher safe.

The Indians and their dugout really climbed aboard Stewart in the first innings of the second game when the umpire called Alvin Dark safe at first after Joe Gordon bobbled his grounder.

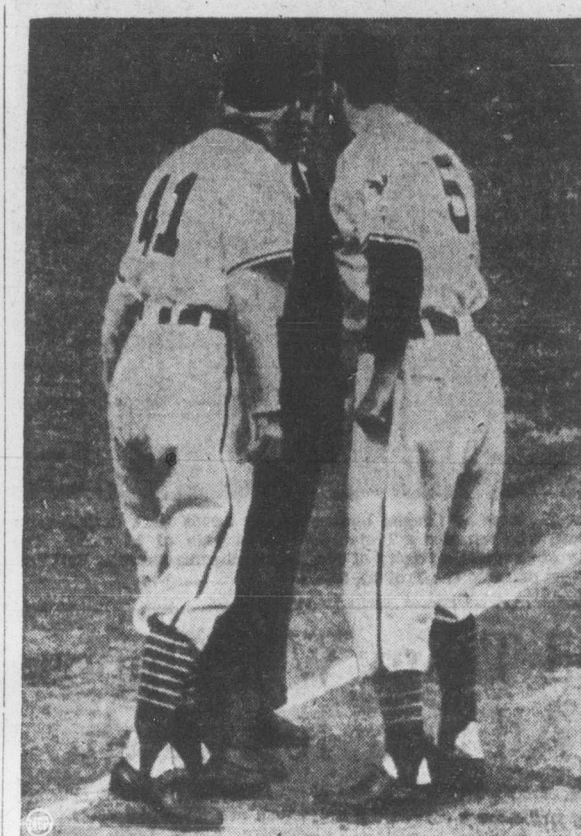

It wasn't so much that they suspected Dark was out. The contention of the players, a good share of the working press and many spectators was that Stewart motioned that the shortstop was safe before his foot hit the bag or the ball was in Eddie Robinson's mitt.

Stewart again bumped into trouble in the first inning of the fourth game in Cleveland, when he called Boudreau out as the shortstopting manager attempted to stretch a double, which scored Dale Mitchell, into a triple. That squawk blew over when Steve Gromek edged Johnny Sain, 2-1.

DREW BOOES

But that didn't keep a sizeable portion of the largest crowd in baseball history from booing when Stewart was announced as the second base umpire in the fifth game. By that time, a vast number of the good citizens of Cleveland and other supporters of the Tribe were convinced that Stewart was a confirmed National League burglar.

It was reminiscent of the 1935

Coach Bill McKee, left, and Lou Boudreau climbed all over Bill Stewart when the umpire called the Indians' shortstopting manager out at third base as he attempted to stretch a double into a triple in the first inning of the fourth World Series game.

series between the Tigers and Cubs when vital decisions against the Chicagoans followed George Moriarty, an American League umpire, around. In the end, Moriarty practically cleaned out the Cubs' dugout.

If umpires were pooled, each one would see each major league club no more than 20 times a year.

None would have any affiliation when he was assigned to the World Series.

Refs Under Fire As Spokane Wins Lacrosse Playoff

NANAIMO (CP)—Spokane Dynamos Monday night evened the British Columbia senior B lacrosse championship, edging Nanaimo Palaces, 10 to 9, in the second game of the best-of-three series here. Nanaimo captured the initial tussle, 18 to 15, in overtime Saturday night.

Following the contest both teams complained about the refereeing and demanded new officials for the third game tonight.

After a bitter controversy it was decided Bill Andrews, Victoria Jokers goalie and former intercity lacrosse star, would be asked to handle the crucial tilt. H. N. Delmonico, vice-president of the B.C.L.A., and Popham from Victoria, handled last night's battle.

Four unreplicated goals in the final period kept Spokane hopes alive as they successfully blanked the Islanders in the important frame.

Nanaimo took a 4 to 2 first-period lead and were up front 5 to 4 at the half. Nanaimo outscored Spokane 4 to 2 in the third quarter but were unable to offset Spokane's determined last-quarter drive.

Fans, and there were over 1,500 on hand, vociferously booed the decisions of referee Delmonico. Following the game, Delmonico declared that he would report Nanaimo coach Ted Menzies, and players Don White and Jimmy Gold to his body for what was termed "unethical conduct."

Gold was accused of bodying the official. White was singled out for "deliberately firing the ball at Delmonico," while coach Menzies, came under fire for undue complaining of the officials' handling of the important contest.

A. Macdonald Wins Horseshoe Pitching

A. J. Macdonald captured the annual horseshoe pitcher's championship Sunday with 24 ringers out of 25 ends. James Keating was runner-up with 15.

Annual meeting of the club will be held at the home of president Keating, 734 Queens Avenue, Friday at 7.30. Officers will be elected for the 1949 season which will start early in the spring. Eight cups will be presented to the winners of this year's competitions.

Tips On Golf Rules

Tip No. 31
BALL MAKES HOLE
NOT IN LINE OF PUTT

Question: A girl in a match claimed a hole because her opponent pressed down the hole the ball had made on the landing on the green although the divot was not in a line to the hole. Was she justified?

Answer: The Committee ruled that, as the elimination could not possibly affect the subsequent play of the hole, no penalty would result. Players or their caddies, however, should defer repairing the ground until the play of hole is finished. Francis—U.S.G.A.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—The information along Broadway is that the Columbia Broadcasting System and Music Corporation of America are about to get into the fight business by buying an interest in the Tournament of Champions. . . . We shudder to think of the possible consequences. . . . What would happen, for instance, if the radio-television sponsor should insist on approving each program before it went on the air? . . . And would the boxing commission have any control over such "promoters" or would it be the Federal Communications Commission?

And what if the idea should spread to other sports? . . . Eventually we might have the "Gruber's Ground Grapefruit Giants" playing the "Cuddly Coconut Cardinals" in the world series. . . . Or, what's worse, they might come up with teams sponsored by rival advertisers, who wouldn't associate with each other, on or off the field. . . . We're safe from "give-away" fight shows, apparently. There are too many fighters they couldn't give away.

K.V.'s Down Students In Hard-Fought Senior B Tilt

With both squads throwing everything they had into the wide open contest, K.V.'s wound up with a handy 44 to 30 decision over Chinese Students in a senior B hoop contest last night. Other games saw Comets nip Eaglettes, 37 to 33, in a senior women's contest and Hotshots down Hepcats, 35 to 21, in the opener.

Feature game was a rough and tumble affair all the way and was marred by the untimely injury of Tommy Derr of the Students. Just as the half-time whistle sounded, Derr got mixed up in a maze of players under his own basket and made a complete somersault in the air, landing on his neck. Taken to hospital for observation, he was later released when it was found that the injury was not serious.

BAMFORD STARS

K.V.'s held a narrow 6 to 5 lead after the first chapter, but increased their lead, 21 to 12, at the half-way mark. By the end of the third, winners led 30 to 18, and in the last quarter ran roughshod over Students, mainly through the efforts of Gordie Bamford, who rang up 12 points.

Behind 30 to 24 going into the final quarter, Comets staged a steady uphill battle in the game with Eaglettes. Game was tied, 33 to 33, with about three minutes remaining, but Pat Mason, playing in her second straight contest, pushed up the winning points about a minute from time. Play see-sawed back and forth, but Shirley Hand scored the clincher shortly before the whistle to give Comets a well-earned victory.

Cash Kennedy with 13 points and Jean Kerr with 10 paced Hotshots to victory over Hepcats in the junior girls' affair. Winners held a 17 to 12 lead at the breather.

Teams and scores follow:
K.V.'s—James 12, Curtis 6, Trace 1, Bamford 17, Wiley, Seed 8, Ferrie 3, Munro, Kerr.

"For heaven's sake, Mr. Carter, when will you learn not to drop your guard and to keep that chin down?"

Finance Minister Advocates Three National Highways In B.C.

Three trans-Canada highways should be constructed across British Columbia, Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb told the annual meeting of the Oak Bay Progressive Conservative Association Monday.

Because of British Columbia's geographical position in relation to other parts of Canada, Mr. Anscomb said a southerly, central and northern highway should be constructed.

He said the cost of constructing a national highway should be borne by the federal government. He added that the actual work should be undertaken by the public works department of the nine provinces.

Cost of road construction in British Columbia was three or four times higher than any other province, he said. The average cost per mile was $65,000.

The minister speaking on resolutions passed at the recent national convention of the Progressive Conservative party in Ottawa, said he was not sure if the Communist Party should be outlawed in Canada.

SAYS COMMUNISTS MENACE

He said the national convention had passed a resolution in favor of outlawing the Communist Party. He added, however, he was afraid that such action might drive Communists underground. "They are a menace to Canada," he said. "In the past two weeks we have seen that the two great labor unions have communists in their ranks."

He claimed there was no difference between communism and socialism.

Speaking on taxation, Mr. Anscomb said a system of compulsory contributions should be established to pay for social security measures.

Every month a sum should be deducted from the pay cheques of every working person, he said. This money should go towards a national fund and used for unemployment and old age pensions and other social security measures.

"It will take time to convince the public that this should be done," he added. "But if we want social security, every Canadian will have to subscribe to it."

FOR SELECTED IMMIGRATION

With regard to immigration, Mr. Anscomb said he was in favor of selected immigration.

"We have been admitting people into Canada who just want to become Canadians," he said. "I prefer immigrants from northern Europe and Great Britain."

With regard to Premier George Drew, Mr. Anscomb said he was the best man the Progressive Conservative Party could have chosen as their national leader.

Mr. Anscomb was also in favor of economic relief for people in the lower income brackets. He said people with a low, steady income or living on pensions should be relieved of paying income tax due to the rise in the cost of living.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

The association re-elected Col. H. T. Goodland as their president, G. V. Cross, first vice-president, C. W. Pomeroy, second vice-president, and Capt. L. Daynes, secretary-treasurer.

Delegates elected to the executive of the Federal Progressive Conservative Association were: H. T. Goodland, R. A. Wootton and Major F. V. Longstaff.

Brig. J. Sutherland Brown was elected as delegate to the provincial association along with Col. Goodland and Mr. Wootton.

Recreation Group For Saanich Elect A. Worthington

Ainsley Worthington was elected president at a meeting of the Saanich Recreation Council, Monday night, in City Hall.

Reeve E. C. Warren was elected honorary president; R. B. Sanderson, vice-president; Mrs. Edith Bous, recording secretary; Mrs. J. McKinty, corresponding secretary; E. C. Head, treasurer and Mrs. T. B. Rawling, publicity.

Reports on activities and projects at the playgrounds during the past season were given by chairman of playground committees and E. P. Cummings, immediate past president, thanked the Recreation Council for its support and co-operation. H. R. Dawson, chief supervisor, made several recommendations with regard to next year's activities.

Suggestion of W. Beddington that the Recreation Council join the Film Council was tabled for discussion at the next meeting. Qu'Appelle Park playground will hold a dance Friday night in C.C.F. Hall, Douglas Street, in aid of playground funds.

Gifts were presented Mr. Worthington and the secretary for their work. Councillor G. A. Rudd was thanked for his work on playgrounds this summer.

World-Wide Variety Of Prints Shown By Camera Club Salon

The artistry and technique of photographers from countries throughout the world are on display at the Empress Hotel lower lounge this week for the 8th annual Victoria International Salon of Photography, being conducted by the Victoria Camera Club.

Represented in the work of photographers from Canada, U.S.A., Australia, Brazil, India, England and Hongkong.

Altogether, the salon is presenting 158 photographs by 93 successful exhibitors. There were 159 entries of 597 prints this year, with six Thunderbird crests awarded.

The prints selected and displayed at the salon present a wide variety of choice of setting, grouping and sentiment. They range from nature studies to the stark contrasts offered by today's modern cities and involve many different treatments of subject, including a wide scope in choice of lighting and arrangement.

This year, the salon committee consists of Stephen Jones, salon director, and Peter Forrest, Tom Halkett, Gladys Boas, Irvine Dawson, Jack Hawkes and Gar Dixon.

Executive of the Victoria Camera Club includes: Ted Hill-Tout, president; Mr. Forrest, vice-president; Bettie Kerkham, secretary; Mr. Hawkes, treasurer; Mr. Dawson, past president, and Mr. Dixon and J. K. Hodges, directors.

The 1948 salon jury consists of Ken McAllister, of Victoria; J. A. McDonald, of Vancouver, and B. Gray Warner, A.R.P.S., of Seattle.

Mr. Jones, the salon director, in considering the entries, observes that judging was the stiffest since the club's first salon in 1941. The average percentage of prints hung in Victoria during the last seven years is 49.8 per cent, and this year's is 26.5 per cent.

George Farmer, 2651 Ansonby Place, reserved plea in Saanich police court Monday on a charge of assaulting William Taylor, Telegraph Road, Keating. He was remanded till Thursday and released on $500 bail.

Two Victorians graduated from Stanford University, Calif., at the end of the summer quarter, it was announced by Alvin C. Eurich, acting president. Elizabeth Lou Horton received her Master of Arts. John David Ewen McAulay graduated with a degree of Doctor of Education.

Scales of commission, the B.C. Government 3 per cent sales tax, luncheon attendance and oil contracts relative to better and larger homes will be subjects for discussion at the Real Estate Board of Victoria's monthly luncheon meeting Wednesday at the Empress Hotel.

The Pacific Furniture Manufacturing Co. employs about 30 in its plant at 878 Viewfield. The union had asked a 35-cent an hour boost to cover rises in the cost of living since the signing of the 1947-48 contract. The companies contended that their margins of profit did not permit them to meet this demand.

The majority report also recommended a night shift differential of 1 cent per hour in addition to the 5-cent differential presently existing. Mr. Guthrie concurred in this recommendation, as he did in the recommendations that no differential between wages paid to male and female workers be made and that no welfare fund be set up for the employees.

The majority report recommended that wage boost be dated from Sept. 16. Mr. Guthrie recommended July 15.

The chairman and Mr. Gregory did not recommend that the union shop proposals be implemented. Mr. Guthrie said that he believed where a majority of the employees express a desire for union shop all employees should be members of the union selected.

The building will be 83 feet long and 45 feet wide, will have concrete floors and reinforced concrete walls for ground-floor space. Second floor walls will be corrugated aluminum sheeting.

Former Tank Warfare Chief Just Too Active To Retire

Canada's most vehement exponent of armored warfare is, at 59, a man whose energies won't sanction retirement.

Maj.-Gen. Frederick Franklin Worthington, officially retired from a career of active service dating from 1915, is as busy as he ever was.

Stocky, greying and blunt, the old war horse just can't get out of harness. "People keep coming to me with things to do," he explained cheerfully.

When he first left the army in 1947, he enrolled in a night class in machine designing at the University of British Columbia, Vancouver. Mrs. Worthington studied journalism. He said he "liked to keep busy."

TAKES ON BIG TASK

He has a new task—a big one. Defence Minister Claxton announced today he will be Coordinator of Civil Defence Planning—to supervise the creation of plans for civil defence which could be placed in operation if war should become imminent.

He will travel extensively and advise local authorities.

"Civil defence is a matter of vital importance," he said. "Assuming that the international situation clears up, we will still have the pattern for the future. We may have to fight again. At the moment the move is only a sensible precaution. There is nothing for anyone to get in a flap over."

BETTER THAN 1939

Faced with an international situation which he terms "pretty grim," the general thinks Canada's military condition is 100 per cent better than it was in 1939. "The Canadian people are all conscious of the gravity of things."

This he considers half the battle, for "our strength lies in our people."

The dynamic little general with the snapping eyes is used to big tasks.

In June last, when the Fraser River unleashed its fury and spread destruction and heart-break throughout the its valley it was to "Fighting Frank" that the Red Cross turned. His job was surveying the damage and administering the $2,500,000 donated by the more fortunate people of B.C. and Canada.

He saw the need was for immediate help and plenty of it. The fund was put to work with a minimum of red tape and delay.

Today all but the worst spots in the valley are back to a semblance of normality.

"They'll have something for me to do before very long," he said a few days ago.

COMPULSORY TRAINING

On the subject of compulsory military training and the formation of a large peacetime army the general had little to say. He felt it wasn't necessary to understand the whole national manpower blueprint before one could properly demand a large standing force.

"I don't know enough about the master manpower plan," he said.

While admitting he was not, personally, against the principle of compulsory peacetime training, he struck at the root of the problem.

"The people of Canada must want compulsory service if it is to be a success," he said. "They can get it if they want it."

Chamber Group Advances Plan For B.C. Coast Guard

A progressive plan for the establishment of a Coast Guard service on the British Columbia coast, was outlined by T. G. Denny, chairman of a Chamber of Commerce committee appointed some time ago to consider matters relative to the formation of such a service, at a meeting of chamber directors this morning.

The committee's plan, Mr. Denny pointed out, would cost very little to begin with. Preliminary phases of the program would clear the way for implementing features of expansion, however. As the thing developed, he said, funds would likely become available and the importance of the work appreciated.

The committee suggested the first step to be taken should be the appointment of a Coast Guard chief and a small staff to inspect existing vessels and establishments and to prepare a detailed plan for implementing a sea-rescue service.

This chief could organize R.C.M.P. vessels, R.C.A.F. stations,

R.C.N. establishments and governmental departments which operate ships to lend assistance whenever ships, planes or coastal areas were in distress.

A standard system of communication should be devised for use by the Coast Guard to contact all auxiliaries, the committee suggests. Headquarters for the service, it believes, should be at the Esquimalt naval base.

Auxiliary Coast Guard squadrons could be organized, the committee says, amongst owners of pleasure craft and also among commercial shipping men. Packers, cannery tenders, fishboats and tugs would come under this latter auxiliary.

When these steps are taken, the way will be clear for the Coast Guard service to be augmented with vessels and equipment of its own and recognized as a government service organization.

Chamber directors gave support to the committee's plan, and decided to forward the scheme to proper governmental authorities.

6% Or 5 Cents Recommended For Furniture Workers

An across the board wage boost of 6 per cent or 5 cents per hour, whichever is greater, was recommended today for employees of the Pacific Furniture Manufacturing Co., Victoria, and the Hammond Furniture Co. Ltd., Vancouver, in a majority report of a conciliation board.

The proposal was made by Paul Britton Paine, chairman, and G. F. P. Gregory, Victoria barrister, nominee of the companies, on the three-man board. Sam Guthrie, C.C.F. member of the B.C. Legislature for Cowichan-Newcastle, nominee on the board of the International Woodworkers of America, representing the employees, recommended a 10 cent an hour boost across the board.

The Pacific Furniture Manufacturing Co. employs about 30 in its plant at 878 Viewfield. The union had asked a 35-cent an hour boost to cover rises in the cost of living since the signing of the 1947-48 contract. The companies contended that their margins of profit did not permit them to meet this demand.

The majority report also recommended a night shift differential of 1 cent per hour in addition to the 5-cent differential presently existing. To Open Debate On Importance Of United Nations

Dr. J. M. Ewing, principal of Victoria College, will address a public meeting in conjunction with United Nations Day which is being celebrated Sunday throughout Canada with speeches and discussions.

The public meeting sponsored by the United Nations Association, Victoria Branch, will be held in the Prince Robert auditorium on Oct. 25 at 8 p.m. Dr. Ewing's subject will be "World Order or World Chaos." The address will pave the way for the audience to participate in debate.

Over the national network of the CBC Monday, the public will have the opportunity of hearing Defence Minister Claxton express his views on Canada's role in international affairs.

Another address over the international system of the CBC will be delivered by Eric Morse, national secretary of the U.N. Association.

On Sunday local churches will make special references to the United Nations organization. Special prayers will also be said for peace and world order.

Schoolchildren will also observe U.N. Day in classes Monday. The department of education has been approached on the subject.

Legion To Press For Increase In Vets' Allowances

When the Dominion executive of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., sits for a three-day session in Ottawa starting Nov. 10, one of the major items on the program will be to make fresh representations for increased allowances for veterans with no other income.

P. G. Barr, B.C. representative of the Dominion executive, and J. Wittcomb, naval veterans' representative, will attend the conference.

Mr. Barr, on his return from a week-end Provincial Command parley, said the national group will meet high government officials. Items will be discussed of vital importance to veterans and Canada as a whole, he said.

The Legion will again press for allowance benefits being extended to Imperial veterans who have had more than 20 years' residence in Canada, also for those Canadian servicemen who only got to England in the First World War.

Mr. Barr explained that benefits apply only to those who saw active service and that England was not classed as an active service zone in the 1914-18 conflict.

Construction of Class Six Hospital here is one of the items the local representatives will champion at the national meeting. The ever-growing need for an older veterans' hospital here has been stressed by veterans' group during the last year or so.

Conciliation Board For Shipyard Dispute

Reeve A. I. Thomas of Esquimalt has been named chairman of a conciliation board to endeavor to find terms for a collective agreement acceptable to the Victoria Shipyard Workers Federal Union, Local 238, and Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd. and Yarrows Ltd.

Appointment of Reeve Thomas and A. J. Thompson and Archibald Clyde of Vancouver, to the board was announced today by the Labor Relations Board.

Wages and working conditions are the main points at issue in the dispute involving about 150 men.

Union Certified

The Labor Relations Board today announced certificates of bargaining authority had been issued to several unions for industries in B.C., including the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 918, for engineers, firemen and maintainers of boilers and machinery at the plant of the New Method Laundry Ltd., Victoria.

White Men? No Such Thing Seattle Lecturer Reveals

You may think you're a white man but there isn't any such "animal" if you listen to Dr. Melville Jacobs, professor of anthropology at University of Washington.

Speaking to an audience of over 400 in the second University Extension Association lecture of its winter series Monday night at the Victoria College-Normal School auditorium, Dr. Jacobs said racial purity is mythical.

"There is no pure white. There is no pure negro. There is no pure this or pure that in human heredity. All populations are mixtures, amalgams or blends of earlier populations," he claimed. Dr. Jacobs said the familiar white-black-red-yellow-brown classifications are incorrect and the color rubrics are unfortunate.

"Recent scientific writings indicate Europeans probably never can be neatly classified into races, subraces, ethnic subdivisions or other racial types," he said.

He gave his attentive listeners other startling information. Eyes, noses, hair, lips, and skin color do not determine intelligence, character or temperament, he said.

Following the meeting, Prof. Robert T. Wallace, president of the association, announced membership in the association has reached an all-time high. Last year there were 161 paid members. This year there are 251. Sixty-four new members were signed at the meeting last night.

Salary Increases Asked By Teachers To Meet Expenses

A revision of their salary schedule to meet higher cost of living was asked of the Greater Victoria School Board Monday night by teachers of the area.

The question was referred to the finance committee for report at the next meeting of the board.

Action was taken after board chairman Austin I. Curtis questioned the board's authority to deal with the request in view of the fact it would be next year's business.

Trustee R. H. Green argued the board would not necessarily have to make a final decision, but could consider the application.

ANNUAL REVIEW

Trustee Green suggested that the salary schedule of teachers should be done away with and salaries should be reviewed each year.

The teachers asked that the minimum salary for elementary teachers of "B" category be raised from $1,300 annually to $1,650; secondary teachers of the same category from $1,300 to $2,000, and corresponding adjustments in other categories.

They asked also for annual increments of $150.

The maximum for the two "B" categories would be $3,000 for elementary teachers and $3,900 for secondary.

INDEX MUCH HIGHER

Spokesman for the teachers was Mrs. Hazel E. Hodson, chairman of the salary committee of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association.

She read a brief outlining teachers' difficulties with rising costs and pointing out the present schedule was drawn up in 1946 when the cost of living index stood at 125. Today it is 158.6.

"In comparison with other professions and trades, teachers are becoming poorer," she said.

She pointed out that teachers are not being overpaid when it is taken into consideration the amount of work and expense entailed by teachers preparing for their work.

College Production Starts Next Month

Fall production of the Victoria College Theatre will be seen on the evenings of Nov. 17 to 20.

The College Theatre is the former Victoria College Players' Club which officials are endeavouring to expand from an exclusive club to an organization involving the whole student body.

Order Returns Youth To Juvenile Court

The case of Edward Mohr, charged in city police court with breaking and entering and committing theft at Balmoral Grocery, 1024 Finlayson Street, Oct. 3, has been returned to juvenile court by a Supreme Court order.

William R. McIntyre, the youth's counsel, presented the order to Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

Four other youths, all of whom pleaded guilty to the same charge, have been sentenced, two receiving two years and the other pair six months.

'Cheap Brooch' Turns Out To Be Worth $200

It never hurts to check up on things you find.

A few months ago, a brooch was found in a local furniture store. Thinking it to be a piece of costume jewelry, the store employees deposited it in the lost and found drawer.

Someone decided recently to have it examined by a jeweler. The brooch turned out to be the real thing, containing 11 small diamonds set in platinum in a fleur-de-lis design. It was appraised at a value of $200.

Says Y.M.C.A. Cannot Be Self-Supporting

Because the Victoria Y.M.C.A. operates as a philanthropic agency, which provides service to boys and young men in the community whether or not they can afford to pay for it, it is not a self-supporting organization.

"If it were," Arnold Ramer, general secretary of the "Y," explains, "its very purpose would be defeated for many of those who need it most would be necessarily denied its privileges because the cost would be prohibitive."

The "Y" is dependent in part upon financial assistance from the Greater Victoria Community Chest, which is now campaigning for $180,000.

Action Planned To Secure Harbor Commission Here

Establishment of a long-sought harbor commission for the Port of Victoria is now nearer than ever before, it was learned today from reliable sources.

It is understood the harbor committees of the Chamber of Commerce and City Council, supported by the outlying municipal councils, are about to meet to prepare a brief which will be submitted to Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew, M.P. for Victoria, for presentation to the House of Commons at its next session.

The brief will outline the need for a harbor commission in this area, and will ask such a commission be incorporated under government statutes.

It is definitely known the form of commission which will be asked for will not be one which will come under the National Harbors Board. Of two alternate forms, it appears likely the commission sought for Victoria will be one similar to those which already function at Port Alberni and New Westminster.

At no time before has there been a greater desire by the representatives of Greater Victoria to see this harbor commission plan brought to a successful conclusion.

The completion of the fishermen's wharves at the foot of Erie Street has emphasized the need of such a board. At the present time, there is no complete authority vested in any government body for supervision and maintenance of the wharves.

The city building inspector today issued a permit to E. H. Luney, 350 King George Terrace, to demolish the large old house of the former Shotbolt estate at 1901 Fairfield Road.

Property of the estate has been subdivided and new homes will be built there by Mr. Luney. Fire last year partially destroyed the old house and the city has been anxious to see it removed.

Flurry Stems From Airline Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—Persistent selling chipped away at stock prices after a short but fast morning buying flurry in today's market.

The market stayed in higher price ground most of the day, but widest gains were trimmed. Selling pressure was strong enough to push some key issues into the minus column.

Volume expanded as prices tended upward and contracted as they fell back.

Morning buying stemmed from sudden interest in airline stocks. Demand spilled over into other groups and at one time U.S. Steel, a market pivot, reached a new high for the year with a gain of one point.

PROTEST RUM PRICE
The price of rum was increased by 10 cents a bottle at Port of Spain (Trinidad) recently, and many workers refuse to buy it until the price is dropped. The increase—the second in 15 months—brought the price of rum to $1.70 a bottle.

Potatoes, Steel And Tourists
Currently In Economic News

By CANADIAN PRESS

Potatoes, steel and tourists are current economic news.

Objections by U.S. growers to imports of Canadian potatoes have pointed up the difficult ground pursued by international commerce when sectional interests of one country or another are hurt.

But a statement from Trade Minister Howe Monday drew attention to the equally realistic fact that trade can't remain a one-way street—if you sell you must also buy. And if the United States is to sell her fruit and fresh vegetables in Canada in one season, then she needs to take a fair amount of Canadian products in another. Mr. Howe stated:

"Canada exported fresh fruit and vegetables to the value of $24,000,000 to the United States during the last five years, whereas her imports from that country were valued at $290,000,000 in the same period." Furthermore, "the bulk of Canadian potato exports to the United States consists of certified seed potatoes, which are in demand by American growers because of their high quality and freedom from disease."

SOLUTION NEEDED

However, it is human that the particular interests hurt don't like it and it is necessary for countries to find a smooth a solution as possible; else, as has happened in the past, a trade may be because of lack of skillful and common sense negotiation. That is the reason why federal and provincial ministers

Small Boy Plays With

Matches; Loses Life

VANCOUVER (CP)—A four-year-old boy playing with matches was suddenly turned into a human torch Monday and died in a hospital early today from the second degree burns he suffered on his body, head and arms.

The tiny victim was Keith Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Harrison. He had been playing with matches outside his home. His mother raced to the door when she heard him screaming and found him sheathed in flame from head to foot.

NAMED DELEGATE—Walter S. Miles, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, was named today to represent that organization at the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to be held during the last week of this month in Vancouver.

Between 250 and 300 delegates to the convention will visit Victoria during the afternoon of Oct. 29, and will be taken on a sightseeing tour by Victoria members.

One Woman's Day

By NANCY HODGES

PLAUSIBLE PLAINT

PERHAPS I HAVE LIVED here so long and have come to know so many people that I have grown to look upon Victoria as a very friendly city. So I got a bit of a jolt when I received a letter from an anonymous reader who evidently has found its people not so easy to meet.

And I am using some of her comments here as they are those of a young business woman who claims to be expressing not only her own views but those of "dozens of others, male and female, who are in the same boat." She starts out:

"It seems that if you are not born and brought up in Victoria you are just not accepted into the social life of this city, and being young, naturally I, and many others strangers to this city and residents, would like to get out once in a while to break the monotony of everyday life. Are we doomed to be spinsters and bachelors simply because there is no way of meeting each other?"

STOMACH ULCERS

AFTER THAT THIRST, my correspondent wonders how you get to know people in this city. She goes on:

"It seems to me that people either bury themselves in shows, sit in cafes and drink coffee until they get a good set of ulcers, or just wander aimlessly down the streets looking in shop windows, spotting girls or boys going by and thinking to themselves, 'gee, I'd like to meet her—but how?'"

She emphasizes that she is talking not of the high school set but of "we people between the ages of 20 to 35," and points out that in swimming at the Crystal Garden and skating at the roller rink, all one ever meets are juveniles of about 16, who have their own crowds and don't want to bother with "us oldsters."

NOTHING TO DO

THE WRITER NEXT WONDERS where the 20-35's disappear to after 6 p.m., or "are they like me and many others, stay home because there is nothing else to do? As you know, no decent boy or girl wants to pick someone off the street but, so help me, that is just about what it is coming to."

She pays tribute to the organizations like the Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. for what they are doing for youth, but declares that they, too, cater principally to the 16 to 18-year-olds at their dances, with the result that those of her age are left out in the cold.

From what I know of both organizations, I feel sure that they welcome young men and women of her age, but I suppose they cannot help it if the younger ones tend to monopolize the floor.

HOSTESS HOUSE

HOWEVER, my correspondent has her own ideas of how the situation might be met. She wonders if "some kind 'stag' dance, where nice young people could get together and meet."

Or, as an alternative, some kind of club could be organized, such as the Hostess House during the war, where young people of her age could go and have "good, clean harmless fun."

I don't know if there is any "kind soul" in Victoria willing to undertake the responsibility, but it seems to me that the young woman has made out a good case for herself and those in "the same boat."

NOT MUCH FUN

AFTER ALL, WITH HOUSING conditions as they are, many of these still young people are forced to live in rather cheerless, cramped and not too comfortable bedrooms which preclude any social life.

Incidentally, the tone of her letter suggests that there are still many young people who have other ideas of "fun" than that available in beer-parlors, despite those who think to the contrary. This is why I am glad to give publicity to her plea, in the hope that some means may be found to meet the need, especially as she herself concludes:

"I know that if something isn't done soon about the situation I'll leave town, and I might add that many young people in the same position as me, who are not meditating matrimony, will do the same and find some place where people are more congenial and think a little bit about the young people, instead of always complaining because they wander the streets too much. Is it any wonder?"

Rescue 4 Fishermen Four Ships Due

Off Prince Rupert In Next 12 Days

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Four Prince Rupert men were picked up Sunday by a rescue craft 12 hours after their 45-foot vessel struck a sunken log near Observatory Inlet, about 80 miles north of here.

They were Capt. John Wick, captain of the halibut boat Johanna, and three passengers—Ted Smith, Bert Withers and B. Timmermeister.

The four had been without shelter in a gale since early Saturday night. The boat was beached when she began to sink. She was badly holed in the starboard bow.

The second freighter, Ss. Harpoon, is due Thursday morning to load 215,000 feet of lumber for the United Kingdom. She is expected to sail for sea the same evening.

The third freighter, Ss. Astoria, is due before the end of the month to load 880,000 feet for the U.S. Atlantic seaboard, and the fourth, Ss. King David, is due Nov. 1 to load 600,000 feet of lumber for South Africa.

Derelict Adrift

Mariners are advised a sunken scow is reported adrift in English Bay, one-half mile off Ferguson Point, according to a notice issued by T. E. Morrison, acting agent for the Department of Transport.

Mr. Morrison also advised mariners that the lighted buoy off Repulse Point, Baynes Sound, is reported not burning.
